RED SOLDIERS ROB AND BEAT GIs IN VIENNA

U.S. Officers Protest to Russians

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 12—United States soldiers off duty are being assaulted by armed Russians on unlighted streets here. The GIs are taking much abuse, cautious against any incident which might have diplomatic repercussions, but they have had about enough.

In a 36 hour visit here reports of violence—holdups, assaults, gun play, and burglary—were heard from dozens of GIs of advance units. The Viennese, especially women, avoid the streets after dark altho the civilian curfew is 10 o'clock. The soldiers' curfew is midnight.

American regulations prohibit the carrying of firearms while off duty, but the rule is being violated by GIs who say, "The Russians won't mess with a man with a gun." The Russians rejected proposals of the higher echelon to disarm all soldiers off duty. They protested that a pistol is part of their uniform.

U. S. Complains to Reds

High ranking Americans have complained to the Russian commanders. United States officers, delivering specific reports of crimes, said that they were assured the Russian soldiers were being punished for the offenses. An American said that he did not know the nature of punishment but was sure that it was severe.

Bursts of celebrants' machine pistols are heard nightly. One Russian officer in a cafe emphasized a patriotic speech by firing his automatic pistol into the ceiling.

"Just big, good natured kids, harmless as six year old boys playing cops and robbers with loaded pistols," said one GI with loose teeth.

This Yank said that his teeth were loosened in a beer house brawl—three Americans and six Russians. The Reds, he said, butted with their clipped heads and the Americans used their fists until the Yanks decided it was time to draw their guns and retreat.

Visits City with Chicagoan

Arriving here at 10 o'clock on a rainy night with Pfc. Bernard D. McGuire, 6851 Stewart av., Chicago, as jeep driver, we were told by United States noncoms in their requisitioned beer hall of an American being slugged and of others losing their jeep at the point of Russian pistols. Next day, from official sources we learned that this was not just talk.

"The American commies ought to live here," said McGuire. "At least our parlor pinks would stop waving the Red flag."

An American correspondent told of being assaulted by two Russians who tried to get his wristwatch. He fought himself free. Our only personal brush with the Reds was in daylight. Two Russian soldiers, with medals on their chests, blew vodka in our faces and vociferously tried to requisition a ride.

At an international party given by the British to celebrate the new year's vintage of wine in accordance with Austrian custom, high ranking Englishmen said that the United Kingdom's relations with Premier Stalin in Vienna were amicable only on the high echelon plane.

Briton Robbed at Night

Leaving the party shortly before midnight, our soldier chauffeur learned that a British member of the party departing an hour earlier had been robbed en route to his billet.

Next morning, fueling our jeep at an American gasoline dump, a sergeant said that one of his men while returning to camp after midnight was beaten on the back with rifle butts by Russian sentries, presumably for disregarding the curfew regulations. The Yank was hospitalized.

Ike, Stalin on Lenin Tomb; View Parade

MOSCOW, Aug. 12 (AP)—At the invitation of Generalissimo Stalin, Gen. Eisenhower mounted a platform atop Lenin's tomb in Red square today and reviewed with the Russian leader a parade and demonstration by 40,000 athletes from the soviet union's 16 republics.

The American general was the first foreigner ever honored with such an invitation.

Eisenhower, accompanied by his son John, United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, and Maj. Gen. J. Russell Deane, chief of the United States military mission to the soviet union, entered Red square shortly before the parade began at noon.

Applauded by Populace

As Eisenhower walked in Red square, from the old location of the shrine of the Iberian virgin to Lenin's tomb, he was applauded by those who recognized him from his pictures.

He halted beside the tomb with the ambassadors, ministers, and other heads of missions and within a few minutes Stalin led the outstanding soviet leaders from the Kremlin to the top of the tomb.

Four minutes later Gen. A. A. Antonov, chief of staff of the Red army, descended from the tomb and told Eisenhower that Stalin had invited him, Harriman and Deane to review the parade with him.

Eisenhower was applauded again as he took his place on the tomb to the right of the generalissimo while Harriman went to the left. Flanked by the two Americans, Stalin reviewed what many spectators called the most colorful of all Red square parades.

The demonstration got underway with a blast from 20 white clad trumpeters before the tomb and the playing of the soviet national anthem by a band of 500.

Ike in Battle Jacket

Stalin wore a summer white blouse trimmed in crimson with glittering gold braid and insignia sparkling on the shoulders. In somber contrast Eisenhower wore a battle jacket and light trousers.

In one section of the parade 100 mothers in sport clothes carried 100 children on their shoulders.

There were 100 portraits of Stalin in the parade as well as a statue of him 25 feet tall.

Faces 60 Day Jail Term if He Commits Suicide

Portland, Ore., Aug. 12 (AP)—A young man who tried to commit suicide appeared before Judge J. B. Seabrook and promised he never would do it again. "Then I'm giving you a 60 day suspended sentence," said the judge, "but you'd better not break your word or you'll serve it out."

Yanks Uncover Films of Hitler's Private Life

LONDON, Aug. 12 [Reuters]—Rolls of film picturing the private life of Adolf Hitler have been found by United States soldiers in a house at Herrsching, about 50 miles from Munich, the Munich radio reported tonight.

TIPPING THE SCALE

500,000 Autos Predicted for 1945 by WPB

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12 (AP)—Predicting a flood of steel for consumer goods at the end of the war, a government official today estimated that at least 500,000 automobiles can be built this year—double the output planned previously.

As far as steel and other materials are concerned, the production volume of manufacturers could be much greater, said the spokesman, an official of the war production board who asked that his name not be used.

"Plant facilities limitations and the time required to get production rolling will be the only factors restricting output of cars or any other civilian product," he said in an interview.

Higher Rate Possible

Even so, the automobile production rate early next year is expected to be at or above pre-war output of 4 million cars a year.

Earlier the WPB had predicted that the end of the war probably would not mean many more cars this year than the 250,000 scheduled on a basis of the war continuing.

This cautiousness was dispelled, however, as the military's plans for reductions of munitions outputs began to materialize yesterday.

These plans call for reductions in army purchases exceeding 15 billion dollars on an annual basis. The navy has halted construction of 95 ships costing one billion 200 million dollars and soon will make further reductions.

36 Billion Drop Expected

This led to estimates by production officials that the current rate of munitions output, approximately 48 billions a year, probably will fall to 12 billion in a few weeks after V-J day. Maintenance, food purchasing, and other miscellaneous items are expected to keep military expenditures at about that level for some time.

The WPB official said that steel for consumer goods would not constitute a problem.

"The mills will be looking for orders in a few months," he said.

He said this means that volume production of all consumer goods—heretofore not expected until well into 1946—will be achieved months earlier. The speedup will be noticeable particularly in output of appliances such as toasters and electric irons.

Plants to Be Cleared

To help heavy industries producing such articles as refrigerators and washing machines, the WPB plans to expedite removal of munitions machinery and equipment from such plants to allow fast and full reconversion.

Priorities assistance authority granted to the WPB by President Truman to crack civilian production bottlenecks will be used chiefly to speed expansion of plant facilities.

While construction activity, including the building of homes, may continue to be restricted for some time because of a shortage of lumber, the WPB will permit any plant construction which will create jobs in civilian production.

This is to provide jobs for munitions workers who will be released when Japan quits. The war man power commission estimates that at least 5 million persons will be jobless within 60 days after the war ends.

8 COACHES DERAILED ON BURLINGTON TRAIN AFTER BRAKE MISHAP

Passengers aboard the Burlington railroad's crack Exposition Flyer were jarred yesterday by a derailment of eight of the train's 13 coaches, west of Aurora, 47 minutes after the train left the Union station on its San Francisco run.

A brake rigging on the fifth coach split and dropped the brake shoes. Brakes on the entire train were set automatically when a brake hose connection was broken, and the train, running at about 25 miles an hour, was stopped abruptly.

The derailed coaches, crowded with service personnel and other travelers, remained upright. The railroad right of way was blocked for four hours until tracks on either side of the derailed train were cleared. Passengers were transferred to another train, which proceeded on its run.

Wait for Word from Mikado, Japan Is Told

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 12 (AP)—Remaining silent on surrender negotiations, Monday morning newspapers in Tokyo continued to emphasize "unswerving loyalty" to the emperor as "the only factor which will save the nation from the worst crisis it has ever been confronted with," the Japanese Domei agency reported in a broadcast recorded by the FCC.

The Japanese people thus far have been given no word of their government's possibly impending surrender; they have been told only to "wait for the great command from the throne."

The newspapers, Domei reported, urged a "grim determination to do everything and anything to safeguard Japan's unique national policy and to uphold its pride and honor as a great nation.

Urge People To Be Calm

"At the same time, these papers urged the people to maintain absolute composure in facing and coping with the stark reality of this gravest national crisis.

"Asahi Shimbun in a prominent top column article declared, 'the entire nation is now burning with righteous indignation over the enemy's outrages. The people at the same time should know that the only way for them to set his majesty's august mind at rest at this critical moment is to solidify their unity.'"

The newspaper Sangyo Keisei was quoted in a broadcast monitored by the American Broadcasting company, as saying "the imperial family is the very center and ruling point of this national unity."

Whether unity and readiness to wait for the great command from the throne" meant peace or continued war, Tokyo did not say.

Togo Reports to Mikado

Domei news agency said, however, that Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo reported to the emperor today on matters under his jurisdiction. The allied note saying Hirohito would have to take his orders from the allied commander of occupying forces comes under Togo's department.

[A Reuters dispatch from London said early today that the New Delhi radio quoted the Tokyo radio as saying the Japanese cabinet had been in session for four hours Sunday night but had issued no statement. An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Chungking also quoted the Tokyo radio as saying the cabinet met Sunday night.]

Enemy's Capital Bombed; Kenney Bags 51 Ships

GUAM, Aug. 13 [Monday] (AP)—American and British carrier pilots, alerted against Japanese treachery under guise of a conditional surrender offer, attacked the Tokyo area at dawn today.

Norman Paige of the American Broadcasting company broadcast from the fleet that the strike, on the area from Matushima to Nagoya, is "a full power" affair with more than 1,000 planes participating, altho reports of results had not yet been received.

[Japan's Domei agency acknowledged that carrier planes flying 800 sorties had struck air fields and military installations in central Honshu. "Principal targets," Domei reported, "were in the Kanto area, including metropolitan Tokyo and the nine surrounding prefectures."]

U. S. Warship Torpedoed

After both Nimitz and Halsey had warned the fleet to be on the alert against treachery, "a major United States war vessel anchored in Buckner bay, Okinawa, was struck by an aerial torpedo from an enemy aircraft Sunday night," Nimitz announced. "The damage has not yet been determined," he said.

Japan shook under other new aerial assaults as Gen. Kenney said in Manila that his far east air forces bombed Kyushu yesterday, and Radio Tokyo reported 70 Super Fortresses bombed and strafed the air stronghold and industrial city of Matsuyama on Shikoku Sunday morning. Gen. Spaatz' Super Forts had given the enemy a one day rest while peace terms were under discussion.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced the destruction or damaging of 51 more Japanese ships thru Saturday, including 20 in enemy home waters. Included in the new total were a destroyer, a submarine, and 11 merchantmen.

50 Liberators Attack

The main blow landed on Kureme, manufacturing center of 90,000 population on northwest Kyushu, where 50 Liberators of the 7th air force unloaded demolition and incendiary bombs. The smoke that rose 10,000 feet over the blazing target city was so dense that succeeding waves of bombers were forced to veer off and look for other targets.

Correspondent Richard Cushing reported from Okinawa that Kurume, source of a great part of Japan's truck tires, was "converted into a hollow ruin" by the bombs, according to pilots' observation.

In other strikes, he said, the big Tosu rail marshaling yards of north central Kyushu were "ploughed up" by the raiders and the Kure naval base was bombed and rocketed.

Set Submarine Afire

Forty Thunderbolts caught a submarine and a large transport in the naval base of Kure, across the inland sea from Kyushu, and set both afire.

Adm. Halsey said his 3d fleet, now lying off the Japanese home islands, would keep on striking until Nippon surrenders.

"The Japanese are licked, down and out," the admiral asserted.

When Friday night's Tokyo broadcast gave the first enemy intimation the jig was up, Halsey was at a ship's movie, "The Thrill of a Romance."

"Like Schoolboys"

Emerging, he said, with a smile:

"We are all like a gang of schoolboys. We got an unexpected vacation."

Asked what he thought was the effect on Japan of Russia's entry in the war, Halsey said:

"Your guess is as good as mine, but if I were a Jap it certainly would influence me. Thank God I'm not."

FALSE PEACE FLASH STARTS CELEBRATIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12—True to precedent that there can be no peace without its false alarm, there was a flurry of excitement in newspaper offices and on the radio networks tonight when the United Press at 8:35 p. m. [Chicago time] flashed the statement that "President has just announced that Japan has accepted the surrender terms of the allies." One minute later the United Press bulletined: "Hold up flash on surrender."

It had been discovered the report was false. It had been dated Washington but the United Press stated it did not originate with its Washington bureau. The news agency said it was investigating the origin.

Not Printed in Papers

The false news never got to the crowds near the White House in Pennsylvania av. and it got to no newspaper readers, so far as is known because it was so soon overtaken by the correction. Multitudes of radio listeners, however, had been misinformed before the damage could be undone.

The incident was reminiscent of the premature armistice news transmitted by Roy Howard of the United Press in November 1918, and the prematdre German surrender report the Associated Press flashed last May on the basis of information furnished by Sen. Connally [D., Tex.].

Denied at White House

Soon after the false report tonight, Presidential Secretary Ross, besieged by scores of reporters demanding an explanation, said:

"There is nothing to the story. Nothing has been received by the President, the war department, the navy, or the state department.

"We are waiting still. That is the situation."

At 9:42 p. m. [Chicago time] the United Press carried the following story:

"A flash of mysterious origin saying that Japan had accepted peace terms was fed into the United Press leased wire system tonight.

"The federal bureau of investigation and the federal communications commission were asked immediately to ascertain who could have cut in on the UP's wire system with the intent to disseminate false information."

Canadians Celebrate

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 12 (AP)—An erroneous United Press flash that President Truman had announced the Japanese surrender resulted tonight in the premature release of a recorded broadcast by Prime Minister King and sent Canadians pouring into the streets in jubilation.

The Canadian Broadcasting corporation interrupted its program to relay the flash and a moment later an announcer said the next voice listeners would hear would be the prime minister's. Then the previously prepared recording was played, in which Mackenzie King said next Sunday would be a day of national prayer and thanksgiving.

Within a few minutes the radio network carried the retraction, but the celebration in Ontario was already underway.

Dance in New York Streets

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—The false "flash" that Japan had surrendered touched off premature peace celebrations in New York.

Harbor whistles set up a deep roar, church bells pealed, wild cheers went up, and service men tossed their caps in the air and danced in the streets.

Honolulu Jubilant

HONOLULU, Aug. 12 (AP)—A wild, premature celebration of the end of the war continued more than 10 minutes today. Blasts from ships were followed by sounding of sirens. Hundreds of service men, previously informed that the sirens would signal peace, began individual celebrations.

V-J Day Decree May Wait for 2 or 3 Days

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12—With 10,000 people massed at the White House gates President Truman and a group of high administration officials waited to a late hour tonight for Japan's reply to the final surrender terms imposed on the enemy by the allied powers. But they waited in vain.

No word was forthcoming from Tokyo where the Japanese cabinet was reported in an all day session considering the concession by the allies that Emperor Hirohito could retain sovereign power but would be required to carry out the orders of the allied supreme commander.

Wait to Midnight

At 5:48 p. m. (4:48 in Chicago) White House Secretary Ross informed more than 100 newspaper reporters in the reception room of the executive office that no reply had been received but that if one should arrive before midnight its contents would be made public.

At midnight the White House press facilities were closed for the night and Secretary Ross said there would be no further announcement before 9 a. m. tomorrow (8 a. m., Chicago time.)

V-J day, said Ross, may not come for two or three days after the surrender—"if Japan surrenders," he added. There may be a gap of two or three days between the surrender and the formal signing, Ross explained, and President Truman will not announce V-J day until the formal signing takes place. As soon, however, as the reply to the allied terms is received, said Ross, the President will call in the press and make it public.

War Still On

After the formal signing of the surrender terms the President will make the official announcement to the nation by radio. His broadcast will be followed by a reading of the formal proclamation that the war is ended.

Asked if any order to cease firing has been issued Ross replied:

"No—the war is still in progress."

In response to a question whether Gen. MacArthur will be the allied supreme commander Ross said he could only repeat that the supreme commander will be an American. The terms of the formal surrender, whenever it takes place, probably will be signed aboard an American battleship in Tokyo bay, a detail recalling the boast of the Jap high command less than four years ago that the peace would be signed in Washington.

(Melbourne radio said high Australian officials expect MacArthur will be named supreme commander.).

State Secretary Byrnes who had been in and out of the White House several times during the day came back to dine with the President. He told reporters that he had no news.

The statement by Secretary Ross that the war is still in progress pending the surrender negotiations followed dispatches from Guam reporting new blows by carrier based aircraft of Adm. Halsey's 3d fleet upon the Tokyo area. The attacks were reported continuing even as the imperial cabinet was considering the reply to the surrender terms.

Apparently the only weapon not being employed during the negotiations is the atomic bomb. Only two atomic bombs were projected upon the Japs before they sued for peace last Friday. The first wiped out the greater part of Hiroshima, a military base and war production center of 318,000 population. The second caused almost as much devastation in Nagasaki. Thereupon the Japs ran up the white flag tho asking that they be allowed to retain their emperor.

The moment the Japs sued for peace the atomic bombing was suspended. In the event of a refusal by the Japs to accept the surrender terms there will be a resumption of the attack with a bigger and better atomic bomb.

New Ultimatum Likely

One administration official said that if nothing should be heard from Tokyo by tomorrow the allied powers undoubtedly will fix a deadline for the answer, with notification to the enemy that if the terms are not accepted by the time set the attack upon his territories by every available means, including the atomic bomb, will be resumed.

If the Japs fail to accept the terms by tomorrow and a new ultimatum becomes necessary the slight concession made to their plea to retain the emperor may be withdrawn and unqualified acceptance of the July 26 ultimatum exacted.

President Truman, who spent the day either in the White House or the executive office, was as much in the dark as any one else regarding the delay in a reply from Tokyo. The only information was derived from the Japanese press agency Domei which broadcast the intelligence that the Jap cabinet was engaged in a protracted meeting.

"Message" Due Today

The British Broadcasting corporation's monitoring service reported tonight to the federal communications commission that the following Morse code wireless message from Tokyo to Geneva had been intercepted at 5:16 p. m. [E. W. T.]:

"Service message from Tokyo to supervisor, Geneva: Re your service message, our important message not yet on hand. We suppose this message will be coming this [Monday] morning. Supervisor, Tokyo."

There was no indication of the nature of the message under discussion.

The Swiss legation, thru which the interchanges with the enemy are being channeled, reported the Jap reply had not been received at Bern.

Seeks Swedish Help

The Jap militarists who got their country into this war and are still in control in Tokyo possibly do not realize that they are licked and calculate that if the allies could be persuaded to soften the terms in one respect, as they did in the case of the emperor, they could be induced to be still more lenient.

In any event it was not doubted that the militarists were making a desperate fight for some face saving arrangement whereby the entry of invasion forces into the main Japanese Islands could be averted, in which event they could claim that Japan had not been defeated just as the Germans claimed Germany had not been licked after Mr. Wilson's soft peace of 1918. If the Jap army of some two or three million men in the Jap homeland were to be compelled to lay down its arms without firing a shot the militarists would "lose face" completely and be compelled to commit hari kiri.

Speculate on Emperor

In that connection there is speculation that the emperor himself may commit hari kiri. Unusual significance is attached to the publicity build up the Jap press is giving the Japanese crown prince, Hirohito's little son, who would become emperor under a regency if Hirohito should abdicate or remove himself by hari kiri.

The final terms given the Japs allow them to keep their emperor, under allied control, pending an election in which the Japanese people will choose their form of government. The terms were silent, however, on the question of the trial of Hirohito as a war criminal. The immunity granted, however, extends to the monarchical institution, not to the person of the monarch. If Hirohito should remove himself the crown prince, succeeding him under a regency, would carry out the orders of the allied army command. So the terms do not preclude the trial of Hirohito as a war criminal.

The complete surrender terms in their present form are:

1. The authority of the emperor to rule the state shall be subject to the allied supreme commander, who will take such steps as he deems necessary to carry out the surrender terms.

2. The emperor shall be required to procure the signature of the surrender terms and to order all armed forces wherever located to lay down their arms.

3. Prisoners of war and civilian internees shall be transported to places of safety to be placed aboard allied transports.

Occupation Provided

4. The ultimate form of the Japanese government shall be established by the freely expressed will of the Japanese people.

5. The allied armed forces will occupy certain points in Japanese territory and will be withdrawn when "the purposes of the Potsdam declaration are achieved."

6. The authority and influence of the militarists who got Japan into a war of conquest shall be eliminated.

7. Japan shall be divested of all territories outside of its four main islands and such minor islands as the allies designate.

8. All Japanese military forces shall be completely disarmed.

9. All war criminals, including those "who have visited cruelties upon our prisoners," shall be punished.

10. All obstacles to the revival and strengthening of democratic tendencies shall be removed.

11. Freedom of speech, of religion, and of thought and of respect for fundamental human rights shall be established.

Nonwar Industry Permitted

12. Japan shall be permitted to maintain industries sufficient to sustain its economy and pay reparations in kind but not industries that would enable rearmament.

13. For the operation of peaceful industry, "access to, as distinguished from control of, raw materials shall be permitted."

14. Eventual participation of Japan in foreign trade will be permitted.

The vigil at the White House began at 8:30 a. m. at which time the White House secretariat had suggested the night before that there might be some news.

Reply Was Expected

More than 100 newspaper reporters and two score photographers and news reel men were on hand at that hour in the reception room of the executive office. The President arrived at about the same time, as did Ross and other White House secretaries. Across the street numerous key men in the state department were at their desks.

The White House had fully expected a reply from Tokyo by this morning and was confident the reply would be an acceptance of the final terms. When Mr. Truman found that nothing had been heard of a reply he had inquiries made at the Swiss legation. Learning from that source that the reply was not even on the way, the President left the executive office at 9:15, saying he would get some breakfast and return later.

Crowds Across Street

He did not come back, however, but remained at the mansion ready to return to his desk if any word should come from Tokyo.

By 11 a. m. there was a procession of men, women, and children strolling past the White House in Pennsylvania av., watching and waiting for the expected sign of the termination of the war. Across the street in Lafayette park crowds were gathering. They stood and they sat on the greensward and eyed the White House gates where public men and newspaper men were coming and going. They waited and they speculated on what looked like a hitch in the surrender negotiations. After hours of waiting many persons drifted away but just as many others, if not more, arrived to take the open air vigil.

Chinese Reds Call on Koreans to Quit Japs

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

The Communist New China news agency, in a broadcast from Yenan, said last night that in view of the Japanese surrender offer the Korean Independence league had called on all Koreans in north China, including those forced to serve in the Japanese army, to surrender at once to Chinese Communist armies. Punishment as traitors will await Koreans who fail to desert immediately.

Hess Adviser Gives Up; Hitler Guard Arrested

LONDON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Hamburg radio said today that Dr. Kurt Trauer, described as a personal adviser to Rudolf Hess and director of a biological hospital in Munich, had surrendered to allied authorities.

AWAIT ORDERS FROM EMPEROR, JAPANESE TOLD

broadcast a proclamation by War Minister Gen. Korechika Anami to Japanese troops in China affirming "the grim determination of the imperial army to exterminate enemy forces and fight a sacred war to the bitter end."

The federal communications commission [FCC] said that Anami had made a similar broadcast on Friday three hours before Japan's announcement that it was ready to talk peace, but Singapore saw fit to put the broadcast out today.

Retract One Bulletin

The Swiss radio, quoting a Tokyo broadcast as heard in Chungking, previously had named Anami as leader of a party that "has appeared to oppose Japan's capitulation."

The FCC here heard Domei announce and then retract without explanation a broadcast declaring that "in response to an imperial command to defend the empire, the imperial army and navy began an offensive along all fronts against enemy allied armies."

Domei's overseas chief beamed a broadcast to North America saying "there is no Badoglio in Japan" and told Japanese in America not to worry, "the people of your fatherland continue to live and continue to fight." Badoglio was the Italian general who took Italy out of the war in Europe.

Discount Bomb's Effect.

The broadcaster asserted that for "better or for worse, the people are looking upon the supreme one [the emperor], and according to his will they will settle all problems, even if their very lives are at stake."

The Domei chief contended that the "inhuman" atomic bomb was not as effective as the Americans had claimed and had caused "unexpectedly small" fatalities in comparison with the damage wrought.

On the other hand, Radio Tokyo as heard by NBC monitors declared "the use of atomic bombs" violated international law prohibiting the use of any weapon "when it is capable of mass slaughter." It urged that the United States adhere "to ethical standards of war."

GIs DISCHARGED ON POINTS NOT LIABLE IN DRAFT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12 (AP)—The war department said today that soldiers discharged on points will not be called for further service unless they volunteer.

The department said it "recently has received inquiries concerning the reinduction of men who had been discharged. In order to clarify this situation" the following policy was announced:

1. Officers honorably released will be placed on inactive status, subject to recall if needed. They are not liable to draft induction.

2. Officers and enlisted men discharged under other than honorable conditions are placed under jurisdiction of selective service. They are eligible for induction with war department approval.

3. Enlisted men discharged for physical disability, dependency, or for the national interest may be reinducted if the conditions under which they were released change subsequently.

AIR FORCE SOON TO BE 3 TIMES THAT IN EUROPE

See Jap Defeat by the B-29s Alone

GUAM, Aug. 13 [Monday]—(AP)—The Japanese surrender offer came just in time to avert the most terrible aerial pounding ever conceived.

Super Forts which devastated 50 Japanese cities within five months—one month of which was devoted principally to strikes at Kyushu Island in support of the Okinawa invasion—were increasing their force so rapidly they would soon be able to accomplish the same amount of destruction in a five-week period.

At the current rate of expansion, the United States strategic air force by September would have been three times greater than the combined 8th and 15th air forces which helped subdue Germany. And they still wouldn't have reached full expansion until January.

All-Weather Force

The air force "virtually accomplished its aim of becoming an all-weather air force. Super Fortress operations were far ahead of schedule when the Japanese said they wanted to quit. The Japanese knew they were licked before any atomic bomb fell.

It fact, they possibly could have been defeated without using any more bombs of any kind—by spraying their rice paddies with fuel oil and removing their principal remaining source of food.

How Yanks Got News

ABOARD ADM. McCAIN'S FLAGSHIP OFF JAPAN, Aug. 10 [Delayed] — (AP) — This key carrier of task force 38 was less than 200 miles off Japan when a pilot burst into the ready room where a movie was being shown.

"The Japs want to quit," he said. "They've got enough."

He was greeted with skeptical remarks such as, "Yeah, sure; to hell with the Japs, let's see the rest of the picture."

When a second man came in with the news, the lid was off. There were rebel yells and western cowpoke hoots.

Out in the passageways, seamen streamed, talking, laughing, and asking:

"Is that the right dope?"

Admirals in Pajamas

From the flag plot, brain of this ship and task force, Vice Adm. McCain emerged in pajamas, as did Rear Adm. Wilder D. Baker. McCain had no official comment, but he and Baker grinned as they watched excited officers talking over the big news.

A few moments later on the flight deck, a pilot walked solemnly out into the night, carrying his plot board from which he had been mapping his course during strikes over Japan. With a wide sweep of his arm, he hurled the plot board into the sea.

"Glad to be rid of that damned thing," he said.

Somehow it seemed to symbolize the feeling of everybody.

RUSSIAN FLEET LANDS MARINES; TAKES 2 PORTS

Army Opens New Drive Toward Peiping

LONDON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Russian marines, invading Korea under the protecting guns of the soviet Pacific fleet, captured the big Japanese naval base of Rashin and the nearby port of Yuki today after storming ashore 90 miles southwest of Vladivostok, the soviet high command announced.

Tokyo reported a massive new Russian drive in Manchuria that threatened to trap perhaps 500,000 Japanese troops in China, cutting them off from Manchuria and the Japanese homeland.

The new Red army drive, as reported by the enemy, threatened to split an estimated 1,500,000 Japanese troops on the Asiatic mainland into two huge pockets.

Strike from Mongolia

Headquarters of the Japanese Kwantung army in Manchuria said the drive was launched by soviet troops striking from Outer Mongolia across Chinese Inner Mongolia toward the Yellow sea northeast of Peiping, ancient capital of China.

The Russians were hammering across mountainous terrain toward the road and air base center of Linsi in southwestern Manchuria, the enemy said, lunging over an old caravan route from Wuchumintsin in Inner Mongolia, 150 miles to the north.

Linsi is 240 miles northwest of the Yellow sea coast, which if reached would isolate the enemy in China. The town, 127 miles from the Chinese frontier, also is only 70 miles north of the northernmost rail line linking central China with the Manchurian city of Mukden.

Fleet Bombards Ports

There was no confirmation of the Japanese report from the soviet high command, but Moscow's fourth Japanese war bulletin told of gains of nine to 22 miles toward the arsenal city of Harbin.

Rashin and Yuki, ports on the sea of Japan, were seized by landing parties after Adm. Ivan Yumashev's fleet bombarded the bases with heavy naval guns, and Red army planes rained tons of explosives on wharves and harbors in a three day aerial pounding.

Rashin, developed in the last seven years as a Japanese naval base 35 miles from the great Russian naval anchorage of Poset, below Vladivostok, was the best enemy port in Korea. It had a pre-war population of 26,000 persons.

Destroy 14 Transports

From Rashin and Yuki, 10 miles northeast, the Japanese shipped the vast war production of Manchuria's industries to the homeland. Capture of the two ports was a heavy blow to the Kwantung army's communications with Japan.

Ships and aircraft of the soviet fleet destroyed two Japanese minelayers and 14 transports in forays supporting the landings, Moscow said, and at the same time the port of Seishin, 35 miles southwest of Rashin, was endangered by the advance of soviet troops on the Asiatic mainland.

The soviet bulletin said Marshal Kirill A. Meretskov's First Far Eastern army, in a 22-mile advance in Manchuria, had captured the rail town of Hunchun, 37 miles north of Yuki. This swift soviet advance imperiled the junction city of Tumen, 27 miles to the west, which controls the rail routes from central Manchuria to Seishin port.

Gain on 230 Mile Front

Meretskov's troops were advancing on a 230-mile front north and northeast of Hunchun, seizing Mishan at the northern end of the front, 162 miles north of Vladivostok. They also swept up six other towns.

While Meretskov's troops were slowed at the eastern end of the Chinese eastern railroad, in western Manchuria, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's trans-Baikal army punched out new gains along the western end of the line. Siberian horsemen and tank tipped armored spearheads, breaking across the Khingan mountain range with its 8,000 foot peaks, emerged on its eastern slopes at a number of unidentified places and plunged toward Harbin from the northwest.

Gain 46 Miles

The Japanese bulletin indicated the Russians had crossed the Great Khinghan in the area west of Tuchuan (Lichuan), 240 miles of Harbin, and that it was in this area that the Russians' advance of 50 and 106 miles a day had been made.

One powerful spearhead of Malinovsky's army was battering along the Chinese eastern railroad toward fortified Pokotu pass across the great Khingan. In a two day 46 mile sweep from Hailar, they captured Yakoshih, 345 miles northwest of Harbin and 63 miles from the pass.

Other columns advanced on a front extending 90 miles southeast of Yakoshih, thru captured Mokoruto to Khara Salt Lake, around which Malinovsky's troops surged after a 34 mile advance from Amukulan.

Gen. Maxim Purkaev's second far eastern army meanwhile advanced on Harbin from the north and northwest, rolling back Japanese defenses along the Amur, Sungari and Ussuri river valleys, while gunboats of the soviet Amur river fleet reduced shore defenses in supporting actions.

266 INTERNED NAZIS SENT OUT OF EIRE TO SECRET DESTINATION

DUBLIN, Eire, Aug. 13 [Reuters]—All but nine of the Germans interned in Eire during the European war left their camp early this morning en route for a secret destination on the continent.

The missing nine, now being hunted by Irish police, failed to return to camp from parole when they heard they were to go back to Europe. The remaining 266 boarded trucks under heavy escort, heading, it is believed, for a southeast coast port where a British ship is awaiting them.

Among them were three luftwaffe officers who made forced landings in Eire; 100, mostly naval personnel, were the crew of a torpedo boat damaged in an engagement with British cruisers in the bay of Biscay in December, 1943.

ALL IS NOT QUIET AS LONDON SHEDS WAR TIME SHELL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 12—The war may be over, but you would never guess it from the noise around this town.

Bulldozers, pick axes, the staccato machine gunlike noises of air hammers make the day hideous as workmen demolish and blast walls and air raid precautions and defenses all over town. Windows bricked up for nearly six years are beginning to show the light of day.

Pill boxes at strategic corners also are being razed and, altho the town is emerging from behind its barricades of brick walls, peace is proving almost as hard on the nerves as war.

REPORTS STALIN DEAL WITH F.D.R. ON MANCHURIA

LONDON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The London Sunday Observer said today it is generally understood Premier Stalin and the late President Roosevelt reached a secret agreement before Yalta concerning the future of Japanese-dominated countries bordering soviet Siberia. The newspaper listed these points of the reported agreement:

1. Manchuria to become an independent republic within the soviet zone of occupation.
2. The Portsmouth treaty of 1905, which ended the Russo-Japanese war, to be annulled. This would end the Japanese annexation of Korea. The future of that country was not settled.
3. Outer and Inner Mongolia to be united in a single republic, nominally independent but in the soviet sphere.
4. Karafuto, the Japanese half of Sakhalin Island, to be returned to Russia and some of the northern Kuriles leased to Russia.
5. Russia to acquire the 1,000-mile Chinese Eastern railway, providing a short route to Vladivostok.

COL. ROOSEVELT PUT ON INACTIVE LIST BY MARINES

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 12—Col. James Roosevelt of the marine corps reserve, has accepted his release to an inactive status after nearly five years of duty, the marine corps announced today.

The 38 year old officer, eldest son of the late President Roosevelt, has been notified of the decision of a medical survey board that a recurring stomach disorder had been aggravated by fatigue resulting from service.

In November, 1940, Col. Roosevelt went to Egypt as an observer and later to Crete and Iraq. Later he became executive officer to Col. Evans F. Carlson, leader of the famed Raiders, and received the Navy cross. He then participated in the invasion of Okinawa.

The army recently announced that his brother, Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt, would be released from duty Aug. 15.

3,738 More Japs Slain in Mop-Up of Philippines

MANILA, Aug. 13 [Monday] (AP)—The American mop-up campaign in the Philippines yielded 3,738 additional Japanese dead and 405 captives in the past week, Gen. MacArthur's bulletin reported today. The total enemy casualties for the entire campaign reached 447,155. Last week's operations cost American forces 41 killed and 88 wounded.

MAC ARTHUR IS SILENT ON POSSIBLE ROLE AS JAP COMMANDER

MANILA, Aug. 12 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur declined comment today on whether he might be designated to assume command in Japan if Nippon surrenders.

It was presumed here, however, that the command would be a natural step under the previous designation by the joint chiefs of staff of the general as supreme ground commander for any Japanese homeland operations.

Announcement of the American reply to Japan's qualified surrender offer came as an anti climax to last night's wild celebration. The feeling that formalities are all that remain before peace becomes a fact was general. Fighting men in this area wonder whether Japanese commanders in the field will recognize a Tokyo surrender, or whether fanatical officers will continue to fight.

British Probe Conditions at 3 Naval Barracks

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 12—Following numerous charges of overcrowding of naval barracks at Chatham, Plymouth, and Devonport, the British admiralty is sending high officers to the bases to investigate complaints of bad food, unhealthy sleeping conditions, and inadequate medical facilities, it was reported today. In the meantime, it is relieving packed camps by granting special leave to approximately 5,000 men weekly.

REPORT SWEDISH KING SOUGHT AS AGENT OF PEACE

Hirohito Seeks Mediator of Royal Birth

LONDON, Aug. 12 (AP)—In a broadcast over the Stockholm radio, NBC Correspondent Bjorn Bjornson today quoted "a semi-official and a very well informed source" as saying there was a likelihood that Emperor Hirohito would seek a royal intermediary in his negotiations with the allies and that the Swedish royal house had been approached with a view to making contact with King Gustav of Sweden.

[In Stockholm a foreign office spokesman said he was unaware of any such approach to members of the royal family, adding that it appeared all negotiations between the allies and Japan were being conducted thru Switzerland.]

Bjornson quoted this source as saying Hirohito likely would seek intercession "since he would consider it possible to negotiate only thru a person of royal birth."

Expected in Few Hours

"The king's brother, Prince Karl, and the prince's son have been approached with a view to contacting the king," Bjornson said. He quoted a Japanese source as saying he thought the Japanese reply to the allied note of Saturday would be favorable and "is to be expected at any time."

The Melbourne radio said the Australian government had been advised Japan's reply to the allied surrender terms was expected within the next 17 to 24 hours. The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, did not say from what source the Australian government received its information.

Prime Minister Attlee returned to No. 10 Downing st. this afternoon after spending the night at his country residence, but a press officer declined to say whether the Japanese situation caused his return. The press officer said, however, that no cabinet meeting had been called and the prime minister was not in consultation with any of the cabinet.

Celebrations Continue

There'll be little energy left in London for celebration of the official V-J days, when they come, if the premature celebrations continue.

Picadilly Circus, center of the west end celebrations, was jammed again tonight as merry crowds of Britons and Americans continued the demonstrations they began on Friday. The shouting crowd overflowed sidewalks and blocked main thorofares, forcing buses to detour several blocks.

Civilians and soldiers alike bought caps and noise makers from vendors doing almost as heavy business as on V-E day.

Hurt in Bath Tub Fall

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 12 (AP)—King Gustav slipped and fell in a bath tub at his summer residence yesterday and slightly injured his side and one arm, the newspaper Svenska-Dagbladet said today. The king attended church services today, walking with a cane.

Reds Accuse War Lords

MOSCOW, Aug. 12 [Reuters]—The soviet paper Pravda today accused Japanese war lords of trying to prolong the war.

"In the ruling circles of Japan a struggle is going on," it said. "The Japanese military clique is objecting to capitulation and desires the continuance of the war despite its hopelessness and senselessness.

"The Japanese militarists, contrary to the interests of the people, are stubbornly following in the footsteps of their German fascist allies and trying by all means to prolong the war in the far east."

Stock Exchange Closed

LONDON, Aug. 12 [Reuters]—The Japanese stock exchange which suspended its functions on Friday ceased its services yesterday, following instructions given by the finance ministry, the Tokyo radio reported today.

FORESEES WAVE OF JAP MURDER AND HARA-KIRI

LONDON, Aug. 13 [Monday]—[Reuters]—A wave of hara-kiri and assassinations would sweep a capitulated Japan a journalist, Hessell Tiltman, authority on the far east, forecast in the London Daily Herald today.

"We can expect the wild men of modern Japan to go underground, hoping to sally forth and wipe out those charged with the task of making peace and building a democratic nation," he said. "A wave of hara-kiri among commanders of the armed forces, followed by a wave of assassinations of men close to the throne must be considered among the probable 'what's next?' as Japan struggles to new birth."

ARMY TO RETAIN TECHNICAL UNITS AS 'RESERVES'

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12 (AP)—Army technical units sponsored and manned by civilian institutions and organizations will be retained on an inactive reserve status after the war, the war department announced today.

Scores of such technical outfits as evacuation hospitals, ordnance companies, railway operating battalions, and construction battalions were organized and staffed by private groups early in the war to speed the mobilization of highly trained specialists.

The department said the decision not to disband the units was made in response to requests from the sponsors.

Mystery 'Rain of Fire' Just Spanish Girl's Prank

MADRID, Spain, Aug. 12 (AP)—The civil governor of Almeria province said today a 15 year old girl had confessed spreading petroleum on the ground near the isolated mountain village of Laroya, resulting in the mysterious "rain of fire" which caused three separate government expeditions to be sent to the area recently.

ADVISES A-BOMB MONOPOLY BY A WORLD LEAGUE

The atomic bomb must be monopolized by a world organization if we would hope to maintain peace, Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago said yesterday in a radio round table discussion of "Atomic Force: Its Meaning for Mankind."

Robert M. Hutchins

"I must confess," he said, "that up to last Monday I did not look upon the idea of a world state with favor. I have been opposed to the idea because I believe no moral basis for it existed—no world conscience or conviction sufficient to keep it from disintegrating.

World Suicide an Alternative

"I do not think we shall be any better off because of the bomb but the alternatives are clear. One alternative is world suicide. Another is agreement among sovereign states to abstain from using the bomb. This, in my judgment, will not be effective. Only thru monopoly of atomic force by a world organization can we hope to abolish war."

William Fielding Ogburn, professor of sociology at the university and one of the participants in the discussion, termed the bomb the "most important invention of all time." He warned that the United States will make itself the most hated power on earth if it tries to sit on the secret of the atomic bomb.

A Nation Equalizer

"Actually you can't sit on a discovery," he said. "Discoveries are made virtually simultaneously in several parts of the world; no single nation ever develops an idea of this kind."

Prof. Ogburn pointed out that the atomic bomb in effect equalizes small and large nations and erases the theory of power politics.

The third round table participant, R. G. Gustavson, vice president of the university, held that the effectiveness of the atomic bomb could have been demonstrated without taking so many lives. The army, he said, should have warned the Japanese that the bomb would be dropped on an isolated area and tell them to study its effect.

Squirrel That Bit Boy, 1½, to Be Given Rabies Test

A squirrel that bit Roger Hale, 1½, of 6118 Drexel av., yesterday will be examined for rabies today by health department officials. The youngster was attacked as he played in the yard at his home. The animal bit the boy in the right leg, keeping its hold until the appearance of his mother, Mrs. Grace Hale.

CHINESE TAKE IMPORTANT RAIL CITY IN KWANGSI

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 12 (AP)—The high command announced today that Chinese troops have recaptured the important rail center of Chuanhsien, 69 miles northeast of Kweilin, capital of Kwangsi province.

Other Chinese forces moved to within five miles of Tungan, a Hunan province rail town midway between Kweilin and Hengyang. Tungan's recapture would cut off the remaining Japanese troops in northern Kwangsi. The town is about 90 miles northeast of Kweilin.

A Chinese army spokesman said today no orders yet had been given by the Chinese high command to cease firing. All war zone commanders have been ordered to continue hostilities until instructed by Chungking to halt them, the spokesman said.

REPORT NATIVES TO DEFY FRENCH IN INDO-CHINA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NEW DELHI, India, Aug. 12—Concern is being felt here over the reaction among the natives of French Indo-China should Japan surrender. It was reported the anti-French people, backed by popular opinion in India, have declared that they will resist French reoccupation of their country. What steps the allies might take to reassert French authority in Indo-China is a question here.

CHICAGO ON EDGE AS IT WAITS FOR NEWS OF PEACE

Great Outburst Expected at Victory Hour

With nerves a little frayed from an overlong period of expectancy, Chicago continued yesterday to wait and wonder about the result of Japanese peace negotiations.

Newspaper offices and radio stations were besieged during the day and night with calls from persons asking for the latest developments. Contradictory stories and rumors circulated freely. Allied reports of renewed bombings of Japan added to the confusion.

Police reports indicated that a few persons got tired of waiting and started premature celebrations in some taverns, but generally the city was quiet. During the day attendance at church services increased considerably, ministers said.

Little Stir Over False Report

The false report last night of the cessation of hostilities caused little stir in the loop. There was some excitement in a few restaurants, where the end of fighting was announced and managers immediately started to close up. The false report was followed immediately by a correction, and business was resumed.

Service men and women, who heard the report on service center radios, said they had no opportunity to get excited before the correction was made. Loop streets looked no different than on other Sundays, when throngs always crowd the shopping center and theater district.

Real Outburst Expected

When the official announcement comes, however, police expect an immediate outburst of pent up enthusiasm. Commissioner Allman has ordered all leaves and days off canceled and has made provisions to station 864 policemen in the loop area.

An additional force of several hundred policemen will be stationed at various points around the city to act as "trouble shooters." In the event of an overjoyous celebration in an outlying section they will be sent there by patrol wagons.

No "Damper" Planned

The whole police setup, Allman said, is aimed at preventing property damage and loss of life, as occurred in 1918, not at putting a damper on a legitimate celebration of victory and peace.

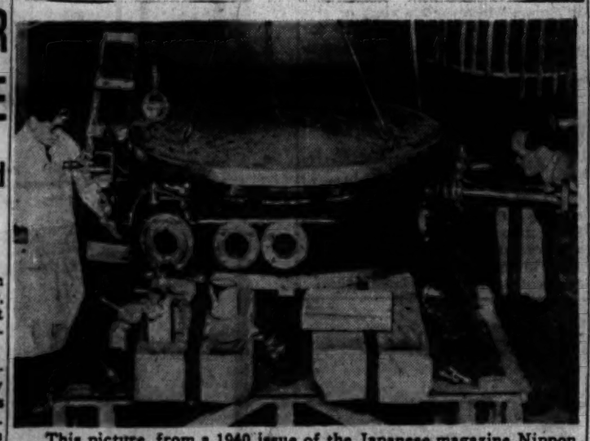
Most churches announced yesterday morning their plans for special thanksgiving services as soon as the peace announcement is made. In general, services will be held on the evening of the announcement, although a few churches will postpone their services until the following day. All Catholic churches will have a holy hour service the evening of the proclamation.

3 Luxury Liners to Carry Troops 4 More Times

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 13 [Monday]—The luxury liners Queen Mary, Queen Elizabeth, and Aquitania will make four more Atlantic crossings as American troop ships and then will be demobilized and handed back by the British ministry of war transport to the Cunard Line for commercial use, according to this morning's Daily Mail. The three liners can carry 40,000 men jointly on each crossing, and four trips would transport almost all of the 175,000 United States troops still in Britain, observers said.

Pre-War Jap Atom Smasher



This picture, from a 1940 issue of the Japanese magazine Nippon, described the machine as a "giant atom-smashing cyclotron of the Nisina laboratory of the Institute of Physical and Chemical Research in Tokyo." Dr. Yosino Nisina (right) was identified as director of the laboratory.

ATTLEE PLEDGES TO KEEP SECRET OF ATOMIC BOMB

Promises Cooperation with Truman

LONDON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee tonight pledged British coöperation with President Truman's proposal that the secret of the atomic bomb be guarded until complete control of the devastating weapon is assured.

The prime minister issued this statement:

"Since I issued the statement on the day of the release of the first atomic bomb a week ago, the vast and terrible effects of this new invention have made themselves felt.

"The last of our enemies has offered to surrender.

Fountain of Prosperity

"The events of these tremendous days reinforce the words in that statement to the effect that we must pray that the discovery which led to the production of the atomic bomb will be made to conduce to peace among the nations, and that instead of wreaking measureless havoc upon the entire globe, it may become a perennial fountain of world prosperity.

"President Truman in his broadcast of Aug. 9 has spoken of the preparation of plans for the future control of this bomb, and of a requst to congress to coöperate to the end that its production and use may be controled and that its power may be made an overwhelming influence towards world peace.

"Benefit to Man"

"It is the intention of his majesty's government to put all their efforts into the promotion of the objects thus foreshadowed and they will lend their full coöperation to that end."

In Bangor, Wales, the national council of the Independent Labor party adopted a resolution declaring that the discovery of the use of atomic energy "could be of the greatest benefit ever vouchsafed to man" in a socialist world.

The resolution said the human race "must go forward to a new order of world socialism if it is to survive." The Independent Labor party has three seats in the new house of commons.

British Warned Clothing Stocks Will Be Meager

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 12—The British tonight were warned by clothing experts that their 24 clothing ration coupons which become valid next month may have to last eight instead of six months, due to world shortages. This means they will be able to buy only about three or four major pieces of clothing, since point values are high.

ANY NATION CAN GET ATOM BOMB, SAYS CHADWICK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12—Refusal of the United States and Britain to reveal the secret of the atomic bomb does not mean that other nations can be denied its use indefinitely, one of its inventors warned today.

James Chadwick, British scientist and Nobel prize winner in physics, said at a press conference that any nation with reasonable production facilities can produce an atomic bomb within five years starting from scratch. This, he declared, would allow time for research, experiment, and construction of the plant facilities.

Such a nation would not need to try to steal the secret, Chadwick emphasized.

This was the first indication that Russia may not have to depend upon American or British generosity to secure access to the greatest secret of the age. Cost of the atomic bomb project has been announced as 2 billion dollars. According to Chadwick, if Russia is willing to spend the same amount of time and money it should be able to produce its own bomb by 1950.

'I WANT TO GO HOME,' THEME AT STAGING AREAS

GIs Sweating It Out at Redeployment Bases

MARSEILLE, France, Aug. 12 (AP)—"I want to put on my Johnny suit—I want to go home!" was the theme song of thousands of American soldiers at three great redeployment staging areas today as they awaited the Japanese decision on allied surrender terms.

Work continued around the clock, meanwhile, in the loading of men and equipment onto American ships for routing to the Pacific.

Before the original Japanese proposal came, these service forces soldiers—almost all of them low pointers—faced Pacific duty unless a miracle happened.

After the Japanese offer was disclosed, they staged a celebration that sent 14 soldiers to hospitals from gunshot wounds.

Order was restored today, but military police were alert after yesterday's demonstration in which forbidden guns and ammunition appeared and shots echoed thru camps and flares went off, illuminating a wild scene of joy-crazed men.

High Pointers First

In the face of official silence regarding any chance in redeployment plans, the question among the soldiers was whether they were going home.

"A lot of us think we are going to have to stay here until they get the high pointers home," said Pvt. Reno Paisona, Lynn, Mass.

Paisona's pal, Pfc. Joseph A. Jeneta, Camden, N. J., said:

"I don't know what they are going to do with us, but I want to go home."

Several men, like Pvt. Clyde Beck, Cambridge Springs, Pa., clung doggedly to the belief they will be sent to the orient, surrender or no surrender.

Every one was unashamedly homesick. There was little joking. Many were hugging their radios, searching the newspapers, consuming soft and hard drinks and smoking many cigarets as they awaited what they hoped would be new orders from Washington.

Hard on Their Nerves

Pvt. Edward Young, Dallas, Tex., who has 86 points toward discharge and has been in the army five years, believes he is headed for the Pacific.

"It was much easier for your nerves when you knew just where you were going," he said. "But all I can think of today is that I want to wear a white shirt and be called 'mister'—in Dallas."

Word of the Japanese surrender offer reached the crew and passengers of a Flying Fortress as they were passing over Istres, France. Sgt. Lloyd Nicholas, Pekin, Ill., the radio operator, picked up the end of a Tokyo broadcast and relayed the news to the pilot, Lt. Edmond Reynolds, New Camp, La., and the navigator, Lt. Thomas Flannagan, Watertown, N. Y.

Bedlam set in 12,000 feet above Europe as those aboard—mostly members of the 348th bombardment group of the 8th air force—began pounding each other on the back and yelling.

Sleeping on the bomb bay door was Corp. Stanley Mohr of Kennsett, Ia.

Mohr recalled, too, that he "was asleep in the belly of a bomber flying over France the day Germany surrendered. It must be good luck."

Mrs. Tessie Dian and her daughter, Mae, of 3133 S. 54th av., Cicero, left yesterday for New York, where the story of the heroism of their son and brother, 1st Lt. William Dian, 22, fighter pilot, will be told to them by an envoy of the French village of St. Genevieve les Gasny, where Dian lost his life.

The envoy, Robert Mercier, was dispatched by the mayor of the village. Dian reportedly saved the village by flying beyond it before crashing in his burning plane. The villagers visit his grave with fresh flowers daily.

Mercier visited Chicago for three days but was unable to locate the Dian family, who had moved to Cicero. He will leave for France Thursday.

ENDING OF DRAFT IS TERMED FIRST JOB IN CONGRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C. Aug. 12—The first task of congress on returning to the capital early next month should be to halt the drafting of men for military service, Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.] said today in a statement from his home in Allegan, Mich.

Hoffman branded "ridiculous" a plan announced recently by Draft Director Hershey to continue drafting men at the rate of 100,000 a month after the defeat of Japan.

Hoffman said further drafting after the war would only disrupt additional homes, when the nation should be restoring families to normal conditions.

MONEY, LIQUOR RUN OUT FOR YANKS IN BERLIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Aug. 12—Yanks here are running out of money and liquor to celebrate Japan's surrender after the half dozen false starts. The 82d air borne division consumed nearly all the wine and schnapps they brought from western Germany and it is impossible to find any liquor on the local market for less than $100 a bottle.

Patients in the 113th evacuation hospital last night paraded in their pajamas thru the corridors singing, "We wanna go home." The chief surgeon informed them nothing was official yet and sent them back to their beds.

AUSSIE OFFICIAL ALTERS VIEWS ON MIKADO'S FATE

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 12 (AP)—In a statement which he later withdrew, External Affairs Minister Herbert V. Evatt today said Australia, regarding Hirohito as a war criminal, absolutely opposes retention of the emperor as a condition of Japanese surrender.

In withdrawing his remarks Evatt said he would issue another statement on the subject when the position became clearer.

In the statement he withdrew Evatt said the Japanese proposal that Hirohito retain his prerogatives was entirely unacceptable to the Australian people; that Australians could never forget the atrocities inflicted on Aussie soldiers and prisoners of war, and that no one in Japan, whatever his rank or station should be given immunity for policies of aggression or for atrocities committed by Japanese under command of the emperor and Jap militarists.

CURB ON TRAVEL CUTS FESTIVAL CHORUSES TO 7

4 Mixed, 2 Women's and a Male Group to Sing

FESTIVAL RESERVED SEATS

Reserved seats for the Chicago Music Festival at 80 cents and $1.25 are on sale in The Tribune Public Service offices at 1 S. Dearborn st. and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. They also are on sale by mail. Money orders or checks should be made payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and sent with stamped, self-addressed envelope to Festival ticket manager, Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago 11.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL

Government restrictions on travel for groups and individuals has reduced the number of choruses to seven in the 16th annual Chicago Music Festival in Soldiers' field Saturday night, reports Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director and chairman of the choral competitions. There are four mixed choruses, two women's choruses, and the lone male group, the Carnegie-Illinois Male chorus, which will win by default.

Dr. Edgar Nelson

The male chorus will sing at the opening of the choral competitions at 1 p. m. Saturday in the Drake hotel. Harry Walsh directs the group.

The women's organizations entered are the Charm Girls chorus, directed by Sidney Diephouse, and the Welsh Ladies Glee club of Chicago, conducted by Mrs. Estelle Roberts Schubert.

Choral Judges Listed

The mixed choruses competing are the Buda Mixed chorus, led by Jacques Homier; the Carnegie-Illinois Mixed chorus, directed by Mr. Walsh; the Electro-Motive Diesel-aires, conducted by Alexander Kulpak, and the Philharmony choir, under the baton of Stanley Mrozinski.

Dr. Nelson lists the judges as follows: Dr. Arthur Becker, dean of music at De Paul university; Miss Helen Leefelt, director of several choruses, and James Baar, director of music at Christian college. The choruses will sing in the festival concert and will join the festival chorus in Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus," to be conducted by Dr. Nelson, accompanied by the festival symphony orchestra.

Able Choral Conductor

Dr. Nelson is well fitted to conduct choral competitions as he is director of three outstanding Chicago choruses, the Apollo club, the Marshall Field chorus, and the Sunday Evening Club chorus. He also is president of the Chicago Conservatory of Music.

Scores of the singers in the competing choruses work in war plants and find their participation in these organizations gives them the relaxation they need from their arduous duties. Dr. Nelson points out that today more than ever America is a singing nation and that plans already are being made for the entry of dozens of choruses in next summer's festival.

Invitation to Grand Rehearsal

Those who have sung for years in the festival chorus are invited to attend the grand rehearsal at 8 p. m. Friday on the stage at the north end of Soldiers' field.

The Hallelujah chorus often has been referred to as the golden link running thru all of the summer festivals as it was introduced at the first concert in 1930 and by popular request has been programmed ever since.

Lotus Blooms

Patricia Wilson of Benton township, Lake county, sits in boat in middle of Grass lake lotus bed and admires some of the blooms.

The lotus beds in Grass lake, Lake county, Ill., now are in bloom and throngs of persons yesterday visited the lake to view the pageantry of the flowers. The peak of the lotus blooming is expected to come in two or three days and the beds will be in bloom for approximately two weeks, it was reported by Ralph Crooks, whose island home is located in the center of the beds.

For more than 25 years the flowering acreage of the lake has been the object of interest to visitors, who classify it as one of the beauty spots of the chain o' lakes region.

Boats, which take visitors out to the beds, now are operating in the lake and it is expected that thousands will visit the lotus beds before they stop blooming.

"Give me the low-down... aren't restaurants cashing in on 'wartime conditions'?"

No indeed! It's true that the ham in "ham a la king" may cost less than roast ham per serving and, actually, we charge you less for it. But that isn't the whole story! The mushrooms, eggs and other ingredients required for this dish... not to mention the extra labor needed to prepare it... make it relatively more expensive to serve than roast ham. And this holds true for many other meat-stretching dishes we must serve these days.

"Don't You Save Money by Cutting Out Butter?"

Definitely not! The jams, jellies and so forth we serve in place of butter actually cost us 2 to 3 times as much per serving. Butter was eliminated simply to provide you with as much meat as possible.

"Any Truth to the Rumor, There'll Be Even Less Meat This Summer?"

Yes, we're afraid there is, as far as restaurants are concerned. Red-point allowances for restaurants were reduced as of July first.

"When You Do Put Meat on the Menu, Why Don't You Have Enough to Go 'Round?"

We do try to save up enough points to have an adequate supply when we put a meat item on the menu. But, naturally, the meat item is by overwhelming odds the most popular thing on the menu. Market scarcities must also be considered. Often we get less meat than we order... regardless of whether or not we have enough points... there just isn't enough meat in the market.

That explains why meat dishes can be sold out in only fifteen minutes. Rarely can restaurants obtain a large enough supply of meat to last for an entire meal period.

NOTE:
Stouffer's are running these messages concerning food rationing in restaurants because we believe that if you understand the facts you will insist upon effective measures against Black Markets. It is to your interest, as well as ours, that the available supply of rationed foods be distributed through legitimate channels.

OLD RED RANTER CHOSEN FOR AIM: SMEAR TRIBUNE

Sam Hammersmark Gets Party Assignment

THE TRIBUNE has been singled out as a target for a campaign of vilification by the reconstituted Communist party. It was learned yesterday that this program emerged last week from a Detroit meeting of communist leaders following the three day secret party convention in New York.

Reportedly, the revolutionary organization has earmarked $15,000 for the latest attacks upon THE TRIBUNE. The Detroit conference discussed means of attempting to injure this newspaper thru boycotts and thru distribution of smear literature, leaving details to be arranged at a Chicago meeting soon.

Samuel T. Hammersmark, a Communist party leader hereabouts for many years, is said to have been placed in command of the smear crusade. His past activities have covered the range of radical movements.

Old Moscow Slant Recalled

The Moscow inspired line of propaganda in old literature bearing Hammersmark's name as communist candidate for various offices has taken on new historical interest since Russia has become the dominant power in Europe.

In 1930, when Hammersmark was Communist nominee for congress in the 7th district, his campaign literature denounced military preparations for "war against the workers' fatherland": preparations which were later to save the soviet union. These handbills refer to the "growing Chinese soviet movement" and "the 5 million votes of German workers for the Communist party."

"Demand recognition of the soviet union!" the 1930 handbills urged. "Defend and fight for your fatherland—the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics!"

Communist Reverses Self

As Hammersmark later carried the Communist banner in election campaigns, including his race for governor of Illinois in 1936, the propaganda against American military strength continued until the breaking of the pact between the Russian and German dictators. Then he pursued the changed communist line for intervention in the European war.

Born in Norway in 1872, Hammersmark has been a Communist party member since 1920. During most of the years he operated book shops reputedly financed by Communists, and currently is in charge of the Modern Book shop at 163 N. Michigan av. Letterheads of some of these activities show him to be an agent for the Daily Worker, the New York communist newspaper.

Having studied for the ministry and the bar, Hammersmark fitted into many roles. He was prominent in the International Workers' order, International Labor Defense, Trade Union Unity league, and the Chicago Workers' school, superseded by the Abraham Lincoln school, 30 W. Washington st.

Fired by Three AFL Unions

Many fellow traveler organizations received his help. He was identified with the development of the Workers' party, Farmer-Labor party, and the American Labor party in New York. He headed two book publishing companies for short periods.

Altho he tried "boring from within" upon three American Federation of Labor unions, he was expelled from each of them. In a 1930 issue of the organ of the Building Service Employes International union is an article assailing Hammersmark at length, concluding with the charge that "the only work he ever did was working the workers."

Communists recognized his services, however. A banquet was held in his honor in 1934 by district 8 of the party [he was a member of section 4, unit 401], and in 1936 handbills urged a rush of subscriptions to the Sunday Worker so that "Sam Ham" could win a trip to soviet Russia.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION

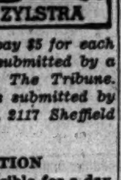
If you could be invisible for a day, what would you do?

WHERE ASKED

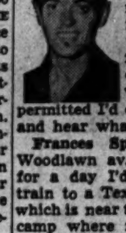
Lake View building, 116 S. Michigan av.

THE ANSWERS

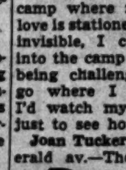
William Mullen, student, 2716 Pine Grove av.—First I'd play a few pranks on people who have pranks coming. Then I'd head for the nearest women's turkish baths and keep turning the showers from hot to cold and cold to hot. Be fun, wouldn't it? If time permitted I'd drop in on my friends and hear what they say about me.



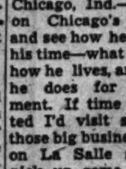
Frances Spencer, student, 6330 Woodlawn av.—If I were invisible for a day I'd take a train to a Texas town which is near the army camp where my true love is stationed. Being invisible, I could go into the camp without being challenged and go where I pleased. I'd watch my friend all day long just to see how he's behaving.



Joan Tucker, student, 7540 S. Emerald av.—The first thing in the morning I'd go to a veterans' hospital and listen to the patients' conversations. I'd make mental notes of the boys' wishes and return later with their hearts' desires. I'd love to watch their expressions when they got what they wanted.



Isidor Buitron, 4831 Wegg av., East Chicago, Ind.—Perhaps I'd drop in on Chicago's mayor and see how he spends his time—what he eats, how he lives, and what he does for amusement. If time permitted I'd visit some of those big business men on La Salle st. and pick up some hot tips on making money.



Lillian Zbiegien, student, 2601 55th st.—I wouldn't want to do anything constructive. I'd like to walk into the movies for nothing. If I didn't like the big hat on a woman in front of me, I could grab it off her head, and I'd hold my hand over the mouth of any one talking during the show. I'd work on some other pests, too.

Robert J. Amrhein, student, 4924 W. Crystal st.—It would please me no end to know what my friends really think of me. I'd spend most of the day going around eavesdropping. Then I'd go out looking for a job, pry into businesses about town, and decide if I'd like working there. Sooner or later, I'd find what I wanted.

WANTS FRENCH GOVERNMENT 'AMERICANIZED'

PARIS, Aug. 12 (AP)—A Socialist leader proposed today an "Americanized" form of government for France, with the president taking over the duties of premier and heading the cabinet.

Under the plan suggested by Vincent Auriol, head of the National Socialist congress' constitutional commission, the president would be empowered to dissolve the legislature if it disagreed with him and call for new elections.

Auriol, chief of the Socialist party's parliamentary delegation to the consultative assembly, submitted the recommendation at the 37th Socialist congress, called to outline policies for France's largest political party in preparation for the fall elections and referendum on revision of the constitution.

Laski Calls for Victory

Prof. Harold Laski, chairman of the executive committee of the British Labor party, told leaders of the party that "we need a great socialist electoral victory in France."

"We invite Socialists of France to form a community with Great Britain in common aims and in common spirit," Laski said.

Talking in French, Laski discussed his party's election victory in Britain, and added:

"We hope our example will be appreciated in France."

Former French Premier Leon Blum in another speech said that "Socialists and Communists have one principle in common—that is, that all workers should unite."

"Great Aim of Socialists"

"The great aim of the Socialists," Blum said, "is that human conditions should be changed. Man should be saved from exploitation and servitude."

Camille Huysmans, president of the Socialist Workers' International and ex-mayor of Antwerp, said the Socialist central commission would meet soon to prepare plans for a world socialist congress "as soon as possible."

Morgan Phillips, secretary general of the British Labor party, told reporters that England would take the lead in fostering socialism on the continent and predicted "even Germany will probably join in some day."

UFEMW VOTES TO CONTINUE AS SEPARATE UNION

The United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers of America [CIO] said yesterday that its members voted by almost a 90 per cent majority to maintain the union as a separate CIO organization. A mail referendum was taken after the UFEMW rejected a recommendation of the National CIO executive board that it merge with the United Automobile Workers, also a CIO union. The national board acted to settle a jurisdictional fight.

Altho the communist-led UFEMW has claimed 70,000 members, it said that 29,086 members voted to maintain the present union, 2,250 voted for merger, and 167 ballots were void.

The squabble between the two unions was at its height last winter when the farm equipment workers accused the UAW of raiding its locals at Peoria and Chicago.

5 Children Jump from Fire Into Mother's Arms

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 12 (AP)—Trapped by flames in her burning home, Mrs. Susan Hampson leaped from a window to a backyard wall, then safely caught each of her five children, ranging in ages from 5 to 11 years, as they jumped after her.

Thieves Take $5,951 Loot from Home of Attorney

Edward K. Stackler, 6959 Ridge av., an attorney, reported to police yesterday that burglars broke into his home and took jewelry, clothing, and a shot gun, all valued at $5,951.

Rosenberg's 'Last Will' Published in Berlin Paper

BERLIN, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Berlin Zeitung published today what it said was the last will of Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, former nazi governor of occupied Russia and ideological leader of the nazi movement. Rosenberg is awaiting trial on war crimes charges. He was seized by the British in a Flensburg hospital last May.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Aug. 13—Los Angeles' Strange Capture

THE DROWSY California village of Nuestra Señora la Reina de Los Angeles, which later was to lose all of its majestic name except the last two words, was "captured" on Aug. 13, 1846, by a brass band and some of the strangest sailors the United States navy ever acquired.

John C. Frémont, scholar, professor of mathematics, engineer, and explorer, had turned up at Monterey a month before after some dubious semi-military exploits on Mexican territory. He and the gaunt, shaggy men he led were taken into naval service by Commodore Robert F. Stockton, who held Monterey, as a prelude to the conquest of California [then Mexican]. The forces soon moved down to the vicinity of Los Angeles by sea.

The invaders found Mexican rule had collapsed and there was no resistance. Frémont, Stockton, the former's odd looking sailors, and the latter's more conventional ones entered Los Angeles and ran up the American flag.

A few days later, when confirmation arrived that the United States and Mexico were at war [nobody in that remote country seems to have been quite sure before], Stockton issued a proclamation virtually annexing California to the United States. It was formally ceded by Mexico in 1848.

The occupation of Los Angeles was one of the many strange episodes in the early history of California. Years before war came a naval officer blandly raised the American flag at Monterey but apologized profusely when he found he had been premature.

Frémont seems to have started a revolution among the American settlers in California two months before the march on Los Angeles. However, it cannot be charged that the secession movement was exclusively American, for Mexico's misrule had alienated important non-American elements of the population.

AFL INTERVENES TODAY IN MOVIE FACTION STRIKE

Executive council members of the American Federation of Labor will reconvene in the Drake hotel today for a hearing on a jurisdictional dispute involving 10 AFL affiliates. The conflict caused a strike in Hollywood [Cal.] moving picture studios that has been in progress since March 12.

At a previous meeting, the council ordered Richard Walsh, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employes [AFL] to "stop issuing charters to workers not properly in his union's jurisdiction." Walsh is accused by other AFL unions of disobeying this order. He has been ordered to attend today's meeting.

President Green, chairman of the executive council, announced yesterday that the question of John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers union's reaffiliation with the AFL might be reconsidered "if a vacancy occurs on the AFL executive board."

Lewis and his 500,000 miners were ousted from the AFL in 1937 when Lewis and other AFL unions formed the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

GLIDER EXPERT KILLED IN CRASH AS 2,000 WATCH

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 12 (AP)—Randall Chapman, chief engineer for the Laister-Kauffmann Aircraft corporation, was killed today when the left wing of the glider he was piloting fell apart and the ship crashed.

Chapman, who established the Missouri state soaring record in April in the same plane, Yankee Doodle, had just completed a figure eight maneuver when the wing collapsed and the plane crashed in front of 2,000 spectators watching the demonstration at Starling airport. Chapman's wife was among those watching.

NATIONAL GOAL FOR WAR AID SET AT 115 MILLION

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—A national goal of 115 million dollars will be sought by the national war fund in its campaign opening Oct. 9, Chairman Winthrop Aldrich said today.

The largest fund allotment, $70,159,500, will go to the U. S. O. for world-wide services to men and women in uniform, to the united seamen's service, the war prisoners' aid, and the American field service. War stricken Europe will receive $34,793,986, of which two-thirds will be spent in the next six months.

Philippine and China relief will require $13,695,003, Aldrich said.

CONDUCTOR ROBBED OF $34

John Miskell, 6952 Calumet av., a surface lines conductor, was robbed of $34 and his money changer by a Negro who boarded a Pershing rd. car at Normal av., yesterday, Miskell told police.

If Your Advertising Keeps Him Buying

You can't keep a factory running without wages.

And you can't pay wages unless you sell goods.

To pay enough wages—enough to provide jobs for all—we've got to make and sell 50 per cent more than we did in our best peacetime year.

We have no choice in this matter . . . if we want American prosperity in America.

And we have no problem. We only need one customer. And we've got that customer.

His name is Wage Earner America.

This is a picture of him—the man whose saved-up billions equals four times the sum all America saved back in 1918 . . . the man whose spendable cash over his basic, fixed expenditures is up 92% since 1939—while that of his white collar neighbor is down 31%.

And W.P.B. has reported that when reconversion comes, only 1 Wage Earner out of 9 will temporarily be affected — 8 out of 9 Wage Earners will continue to do exactly what they're doing right now.

Sell that man—and the millions like him—and you provide the means to buy America's prosperity for this generation—perhaps forever.

He's tasted the good things America has to offer.

He wants more of the same.

He's ready now to build his home—and to furnish it, inside and out.

But it is up to your advertising to keep alive his ambitious new standards of living . . . to convert his appetites into cash (and more wages.)

It's up to your advertising to reassure him of the Security of Spending.

To do this your advertising must move into his home, his habits. And there is a way to do it: Twenty-five years ago Macfadden Publications became the first to put his life, his hopes into print. And in these years of service to the Wage Earner family a strong and enduring mutual loyalty has been built. As one thoughtful advertiser put it, the Macfadden Magazines have the "common touch." No other magazines reach more of America's Wage Earner Millions. No other magazines have greater power to influence them.

Headquarters for Wage Earner Information

In the last 12 years, Wage Earner America has become the dominant influence on our economic and social life. Through these years Macfadden Publications have accumulated an immense amount of material on every facet of Wage Earner life in order (as stated in Macfadden's pledge to industry)... "to maintain our service to Industry as the most authoritative private source of knowledge and understanding of these people—upon whom Industry—and, indeed, our entire economic system as we presently know it—must depend."

Here are a few of the titles released recently by Macfadden's Research Director Everett R. Smith. These will be of immediate interest to executives seeking clearer understanding of how America's Wage Earner millions live, work, plan:

'AMATEUR' TRIO HELD IN $40,000 EXTORTION PLOT

Harvard Banker Intended Victim of Band

Three men, one an ex-convict, were held in the Walworth county, Wis., jail yesterday for removal here to face charges of attempting to extort $40,000 from William Hubbell, president of the Harvard State bank of Harvard, McHenry county.

Those held are William H. Huber, 40, of Elkhorn, Wis., Carl S. Garman, 32, and Burdell M. Boardman, 20, both of Delavan, Wis. In 1932 Huber served one year in the Bridewell here on a burglary charge and a year later was sentenced to a five year term at Leavenworth prison for forging a government check.

Threaten Gang Style Death

The men, described as amateurs, demanded the money, Spencer J. Drayton, head of the Chicago FBI office, said, in a series of telephone calls to Hubbell threatening death in gangland fashion. Hubbell notified Police Chief Fred Wilke of Harvard after the first call and then the FBI was notified.

The first call was traced to the Chicago and North Western railway depot at Williams Bay, Wis. Subsequent calls were made in that vicinity. Identity of the men was learned several days ago and, while the trio was kept under surveillance, a meeting was arranged to turn over the money.

All Admit Plot

With FBI agents and deputies under Sheriff J. W. Cusack of Walworth county, watching the movements of the men, Boardman and Garman were trapped as they met other agents in a car on a lonely road near Delavan.

Huber was seized several hours later in Elkhorn. All admitted their part in the attempted extortion, Drayton said.

The plot was the idea of Boardman, Drayton explained, because the bank foreclosed a mortgage on his automobile a year ago. The $40,000 figure, he added, was decided upon because the bank's window advertised surplus assets of that amount.

ARMY COOK WHO KILLED 16 JAPS WINS TOP MEDAL

WITH THE 33D DIVISION, Luzon, Aug. 12 (AP)—A cook's helper who volunteered for frontline duty to get away from the kitchen has been awarded the congressional medal of honor for killing 16 Japanese in a hill fight near Baguio. He is Sgt. Dexter J. Kerstetter, 37, of Centralia, Wash.

The enemy had stopped his platoon with rifle, machine gun and mortar fire from caves when Kerstetter started his one man blitz. Sprinting thru deadly fire, he knocked out one position with grenades and rifle, killing six Japs. Then he dashed again thru machine gun fire, killed a machine gunner with a grenade and knocked out a mortar crew with rifle fire.

His ammunition exhausted, he went back for a new supply. Finding his own platoon reduced in numbers, he led another platoon into action and killed three Japanese. Two days later a sniper wounded him and he spent two months in a hospital. Now, with 170 discharge points, he is awaiting a trip home.

Report Spain Protests on Tangier Conference

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

LONDON, Aug. 13 [Monday]—Spain has sent a protest to Britain against allied talks on Tangier, which are taking place in Paris, the Daily Telegraph said today. The note reportedly observes that the conference on the fate of the international zone occupied by Spain in June, 1940, is being held without the presence of a Spanish representative, and that a state which has had no previous interest in Tangier is a party to the discussions.

GERMAN PARTIES MEET, VOW TO REDEEM NATION

BERLIN, Aug. 12 (AP)—Spokesmen for Berlin's four political parties in their first public "united front" meeting today said the German people would endeavor earnestly to fulfill the the terms of the Potsdam declaration. Some 500 representatives of the four parties unanimously supported a resolution offered by Trade Union Representative Ernst Lemmer which:

Called for a continuation of the united front to achieve Germany's regeneration; acknowledged Germany's collective guilt for the Hitler regime; pledged elimination of militarism, reactionarism, and nazism; admonished the nation that the going will be hard, and pledged an honest attempt to fulfill the spirit and letter of the Potsdam decisions of the Big Three.

Wilhelm Kuelz, minister of the interior in the Weimar republic, presided and termed the four political parties "the educators of the nation for democracy."

ALL-YANK TEAM SETS RECORD IN SHIP UNLOADING

BY LARRY RUE
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, Aug. 12—Altho operating only since July 4, the port of Bremerhaven has been leading all other ports on the continent in tons per ship, per day, unloaded.

Col. Edward H. Connor of Washington, D. C., commander of the 7th port command, which came over from England Jan. 19, 1944, and later operated at Ghent, Belgium, said the unloadings were averaging between nine and 10 thousand tons daily and they have, on certain days, unloaded as much as 14,000 tons. Of this total, 85 per cent was quartermaster cargo—food and clothing—for the army of occupation and deployment centers, altho one cargo of coal has been unloaded already to serve our military needs in the area.

Getting Stuff Away

The cargoes are now being unloaded and dispatched by trains and trucks inland—even as far as Paris—at such a rate that at many places in the occupation zone goods are arriving faster than the depots, which are not yet completely organized or equipped, can take care of them. Whatever bottlenecks now exist are not at the ports but at the dumps.

"The railroads," Connor said, "are doing an excellent job and supplemented with some trucks are getting the stuff away satisfactorily."

The Bremerhaven port has berths for 15 large ships—13 are being unloaded at the present time. It is equipped with 49 shore cranes as well as five floating cranes including one of the world's largest which can lift 290 tons.

The 7th port command consists of 104 officers and 392 men. It is assisted by the 487th battalion which comprises 45 officers and 1,170 enlisted men, who are engaged in supervision, documentation and checking, and the 330th harbor craft company consisting of 250 officers and men. This all-American personnel runs one of the world's most active ports. Employed, however, are 5,000 German civilian workers as well as 1,000 prisoners of war.

Handle Entertainment

In addition to its regular job the 7th port command also has been handling disembarkation and entertainment to the American occupational zone. Thirty-five thousand of the 70,000 Yanks scheduled have been received here and sent inland and it is expected this job will be completed in another two weeks or so.

Connor attributes the command's success to the fact that the 7th has been kept fairly intact. Of the 85 officers who came over with him he still has 65. The accomplishments of the 7th can also be attributed largely to the fact that thruout his command Connor has had officers who handled big shipping jobs in civilian life as well as skilled engineers.

Of these, Maj. Charles V. Lambe of Chicago, Ill., who in civilian life constructed natural gas pipelines as far as Chicago from the Texas panhandle, has established some kind of record of his own. As port engineer he has had charge of dredging the harbor and employing 300 civilian workers and has already removed, since the Americans took over, 1,800,000 cubic yards of the two million it was estimated would have to be removed before the port was in first class working order.

These meetings also will be in the Morrison hotel.

The newly formed United Telephone Workers' union has succeeded in winning 1,400 Chicago telephone operators away from the Chicago Telephone Traffic union, Edwin R. Hackett, union counsel, said yesterday.

Why Embarrass Your Friends?

Your hearing impairment can be more embarrassing to your friends than it is to you. It causes them to speak louder—they don't know whether you hear what they say—and then, of course, there is the difference in your own personality that loss of hearing makes. There's an easy and economical way to overcome all these disadvantages however—simply drop in at your nearest Uhlemann office and ask about Zenith Radionic Hearing Aids. You'll find the Zenith extraordinarily simple to operate—and, of course, it's the most economical hearing aid you can buy.

Ask About Progress of Peace Negotiations

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—The transport Santa Rosa arrived from Europe today with 3,339 waving, whistling, and cheering troops who shouted for information about the progress of peace negotiations with Japan.

The troops pelted a girl reporter with candy bars, cigarets, and coins as she walked beside the ship displaying the latest newspaper headlines.

One of Five Ships

The Santa Rosa was one of five vessels, including an army hospital ship, arriving here today with a total of 6,641 United States troops.

The ship had aboard 158 Japanese personnel who were taken to Ellis Island in preparation for their internment. They are diplomatic and consular officials who had been stationed in Germany and were taken by allied troops in the invasion of the reich.

Units aboard were men of the 10th armored division, the 351st engineers, air force members for reassignment, and infantry and ordnance groups. The troops will go to Camp Shanks, N. Y., and Camp Kilmer, N. J., for processing.

General Is Aboard

Ranking officer aboard the Santa Rosa was Brig. Gen. Harold Nisley, unattached, en route to Washington, D. C.

Other ships docking were the Marine Angel with 2,997 men, the George W. Goethals with 17, the Joseph O. Lincoln with five, and the army hospital ship Thistle with 447 patients.

The following army units were scheduled to arrive from Europe tomorrow:

Two Die as Autos Crash Head-on at Vincennes

Vincennes, Ind., Aug. 12 [Special]—A head-on collision of two automobiles here today caused fatal injuries to one occupant of each car and sent nine to the hospital. Norma Jean Wilson, 19, Bridgeport, Ill., riding in the car driven by Raymond Wilson, a cousin, died in a hospital. George A. Bogle, 50, of Tama, Ia., occupant of the car driven by Ernest Telfer, Vincennes, died after being removed from the wrecked automobile.

CHINESE FORM A TANK ARMY; CHICAGOAN IS IT

SERVICES OF SUPPLY BASE, CHANYI, China [Delayed] — Staff Sgt. Edward Szura, 922 N. Hermitage av., Chicago, Ill., thought he was just another ordinance repair man when he was shipped overseas. Since then he has been scalped by the Japs in Burma, wined and dined by the viceroy of India, and has commanded tanks in the North Burma campaign.

When Szura arrived in Calcutta, men were needed for the newly-activated 1st Chinese tank battalion. Szura was it. Driving a light tank, he plowed thru the jungles of northern Burma and into Jap positions.

Rough All the Way

"It was rough going all the way," Szura recalled. "Finally the monsoon rains became so heavy we couldn't maneuver the tanks.

"One night when I was out on reconnaissance patrol, I had a little bout with a Nip, and suffered a bad scalp wound. But you should have seen the other guy!"

A short time later, his scalp healed, Szura was ordered to the summer palace of Viceroy Wavell, at Simla. Wavell had requested the Northern Combat Area Command to choose four American fighters who had been in continual combat to be his house guests.

"Just a Memory"

"The high living in the viceroy's palace was terrific after fighting in Burma," said the sergeant, "but it wasn't long before the Scotch and sodas were just a memory."

"We reorganized about the time I returned to my organization, and I became platoon sergeant of the American Medium Tank platoon."

Now serving in southwestern China near the end of the world's longest supply line which includes the famous "Hump" air highway and the Stilwell road, Sergeant Szura is at least doing the job he was sent overseas to do. He is an ordinance repair man.

PRAISES COUNTY HOSPITAL UNIT'S AID TO WOUNDED

Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley, chief surgeon of the European theater of operations, expressed praise yesterday in a letter to Gen. Manus McCloskey, warden of County hospital, for the work of the staff of the 297th general hospital unit recruited from the surgeons, physicians, nurses, and other personnel of County hospital. The unit's 1,000 bed hospital cared for as many as 2,000 patients at a time without lowering its high professional standard, Gen. Hawley said.

"Cook County hospital can be very proud of the 297th general hospital," he wrote Gen. McCloskey. "It has rendered valuable service to our country and it has been both an official and a personal pleasure for me to have had this fine unit under my direction."

When the army is demobilized, the 297th hospital unit and military units which have been sponsored by institutions and business firms will be placed on a reserve status. This policy has been announced by the war department to preserve interest in national security.

The Man You Seldom See

Up in the locomotive cab of your train sits a man you seldom see. Perhaps you never catch a glimpse of him although he is responsible for taking you to your destination.

Union Pacific, like other railroads, has certain exacting requirements for an engineer. The man who pilots a passenger or freight locomotive has served years as a fireman . . . knows the function of a locomotive's many parts . . . is thoroughly familiar with operating rules . . . has passed a rigid physical examination and been periodically re-examined. In short, he is well qualified, both mentally and physically, to handle his job.

Care in selecting and training employes has been a big factor in establishing the enviable Union Pacific record for safe and dependable transportation over the Strategic Middle Route, uniting the East with the mid-West and the Pacific Coast.

IKE PUTS CURB ON GIs' BLACK MARKET CORNER

Acts After Three Million Clean Up in Berlin

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Aug. 12—The thrifty American troops occupying Berlin received $3,500,000 in salaries during July, but in 24 days in July they shipped $8,500,000 to America.

These figures were revealed today when Gen. Eisenhower issued an order that no member of the American forces, or civilians attached to the army, hereafter will be permitted to obtain postal money orders or buy war bonds for a greater amount monthly than the salary received plus 10 per cent.

The measure is aimed against black market speculation, in which the GIs obtain 100 marks [$10 at the pegged exchange] for a pack of cigarets, 100 marks for a candy bar, and 50 marks for a package of chewing gum. The measure also removes the incentive for the Yanks to sell their watches to Russians for $500 or more and fountain pens for $100.

500,000 Packs Sold

It is estimated 90 per cent of the black market trading is in cigarets, and that a minimum of 500,000 packages was sold by the troops during July.

The fiscal department of the army takes the view that when the Yank accumulates marks—which actually are worthless except as a medium of exchange—and buys American dollars by purchasing postal orders and war bonds, he is saddling the American tax payers with that sum because payment of these money orders and bonds must come from the United States government, which derives its funds from the people.

The bank rolls carried by the Russian soldiers and their readiness to pay fabulous prices for any articles they desire are explained by the fact that the Red troops are paid in rubles, which are merely credited to them and which never leave Russia. They also receive a living allowance in marks while serving in occupied territory, which must be spent there and cannot be sent to Russia.

No Limit on Marks

A field officer gets as high as $25 daily living allowance, in addition to food, clothing, and housing provided by the army.

There is no interallied agreement on the amount of marks the Russian, British, French, and American armies of occupation print and distribute, and any government could flood billions of marks into circulation.

It was pointed out here that this situation creates an obstacle to obtaining reparations the allies expect from Germany, except for industrial plants, livestock, railroad rolling stock, and other movable materials, because the central government's first financial obligation will be to honor issues of marks which already would total enough to plunge the country into bankruptcy even if it retained the assets already earmarked for indemnity.

So that's why that Civil war veteran keeps that cannon around the house!

EX-HITLER AID SEEKS TO SAVE WEALTH BY RUSE

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MUNICH, Germany, Aug. 9 [Delayed]—While Hitler's labor minister, Franz Seldte, is detained by the Americans as a war criminal, his wife and daughters boast that their fortune in jewels, furs, and vast estates was saved and that nothing can happen to them. They are confident that Seldte himself "will be able to get out of the clutches of the law."

A few weeks ago, when I first interviewed Seldte's wife in their big villa at Tegernsee, she loudly proclaimed that she never went to Berlin and that she and her husband were estranged. The truth was that her husband had been visiting his family at Tegernsee only a few weeks before the Americans conquered Bavaria and he also worked overtime to secure soft jobs behind the front for his son-in-law, who was in the villa at Tegernsee.

Expect to Reopen Factory

Since then members of the Seldte tribe have consulted lawyers and contacted chambers of commerce and proudly tell their friends that since most of the property is in the name of Frau Seldte and the son-in-law, Dr. Kurt Weckwarth, the Americans would not cripple their income or possessions.

They even expect to reopen a factory using money that Seldte salted away under his wife's name.

Seldte and his ilk think that he will escape punishment by allied courts because he claims to have been a Nationalist and not a Nazi.

Undermined Republic

His Steel Helmet organization, which he founded on Christmas, 1918, devoted most of its energy to undermining the republic and became a part of the storm troop reserves when Hitler assumed power.

The cases of the Seldtes is not exceptional. Almost every Bavarian can cite the case of some wife, daughter, or sweetheart of a Nazi who retained control of his property and is making good propaganda use of it while the Nazi himself either is in hiding or is detained by one of the united nations.

VICE PREMIER SEES ITALIAN REPUBLIC, END OF MONARCHY

PARIS, Aug. 12 [Reuters]—The Italian constituent assembly to be elected in November will abolish the monarchy and proclaim a republic, Pietro Nenni, Italian vice premier, who is here for the French Socialist congress, said in an interview in today's Populaire.

"There are strong chances that the left wing parties will have a majority in the constituent assembly," Nenni said.

"This constituent assembly which will be elected thanks to the pact for unity of action between the Italian Communists and Socialists will abolish the monarchy and proclaim a republic."

154 ARE KILLED ON DESTROYER SUNK BY JAPS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12 (AP)—Hits from two Japanese suicide bombers sank the destroyer USS Drexler off Okinawa last May 28 with the loss of 154 lives, the navy disclosed today. Fifty-two others of the 350 aboard were wounded. Loss of the ship had been announced previously without details.

Four suicide planes participated in the attack, the navy said. The first was shot down by the combat air patrol. The second got thru and crashed the 2,200-ton destroyer amidships, starting large gasoline fires. Gunners knocked down the third. The fourth came in pursued by two marine pilots, missed the ship on his first pass, but turned in a tight circle and struck the destroyer at the base of the No. 2 stack. A tremendous explosion rocked the ship which rolled over and sank in 49 seconds.

The destroyer's skipper, Comdr. Ronald Lee Wilson, Marion, Ill., attributed the high casualties to the rapidity with which the ship sank. Wilson was wounded.

LIVING COSTS IN TURKEY UP 400 PER CENT

Hit Hard by Inflation; Pay Remains Low

BY CLAY GOWRAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ANKARA, Turkey, Aug. 12—Turkey today is in the throes of the worst inflation experienced by any of the allied nations with the exception of China. Economists estimate that living costs have risen 400 per cent above the pre-war years with only minor wage increases.

In this country you cannot buy a pair of shoes under $30 [American money], nor men's shorts for much less than $12. A man's shirt, poorly tailored of poor cloth, costs at least $200. Prices of foodstuffs have jumped almost on the same scale.

Studies made recently by experts reveal the seriousness of conditions. They found for example that a family of four persons which before the war spent 100 Turkish pounds [$35.50] a month on essentials such as rent, clothing, and food, had to spend 417.81 pounds for the same items in June this year, an increase of more than 300 per cent.

Salaries Almost Static

Salaries, on the other hand, have remained almost static. The salary of a responsible clerk is about the same as before the war, 200 to 300 pounds a month.

So far there have been only faint rumblings of unrest in this rigidly controled nation. The government appears to be worried, but the only action taken as yet has been in reality a first aid measure.

The government is now granting an extra month's pay to its large number of employes and also is giving them the opportunity to buy cloth and certain staple foods at special prices. Such measures, however, aid only those employed by the state.

Black Market Thrives

The black market is flourishing everywhere.

Foreign observers see only two possible methods for Turkey to save herself from depression. One is for the government to order an overall deflation of prices. The other is devaluation of the currency.

Indications that many rich Turks believe the latter step may come is seen in their increasing investments in solid goods that are likely to hold their value. Thousands of Turks have invested their savings in Turkish and Persian rugs which they have stored in warehouses.

IT'S UNIMPORTANT, SAYS TITO OF KING'S BAN ON 3 REGENTS

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 12—King Peter's recent proclamation withdrawing the authority of Yugoslavia's three regents is "unimportant," and the country's new constitution "will solve the problem of a monarchy or republic," Marshal Tito said today.

The constituent assembly which, Tito said, will work out the new constitution without a plebiscite, is expected to meet after the general elections, scheduled to be held about mid-October.

Of King Peter, Tito said: "He is of no importance to us. He had no legal right to withdraw the regents." Tito emphasized that he had "hopes" about Trieste because he considered Yugoslavia had both economic and ethnilogical rights to the region.

MAIMED SOLDIER AND WIFE GET $60,000 GIFT

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 12—Sgt. Frederic Hensel, only soldier in this war to lose parts of both arms and legs in combat, and his wife, Jewell, received some $60,000 in cash gifts today as they celebrated their third wedding anniversary at the army's Percy Jones hospital. Hensel arrived here from Okinawa five weeks ago.

In tribute to his courage people from all over the country began sending contributions to help him. Readers of two newspapers contributed a substantial share of the $60,000.

The Corbin, Ky., sergeant today made his first brief trip out of his room in a wheel chair. Doctors, who once believed it was impossible for a person to survive the shock of losing all four limbs, said his progress has been remarkable.

Because contributions were from various individuals, the money is not subject to the gift tax, which applies only when the gift from one source exceeds $30,000.

WE CAN'T BE HALF FREE

America for the last four years has been the home of the brave but not the land of the free. For not only have all of our able-bodied men been placed under arms, without their choice, a necessary step in fighting a modern war, but those who have stayed at home have been under disciplines such as in peace time are in effect only in dictatorships. The extent to which we have lost our liberty needs to be reviewed with the end of hostilities.

Freedom of contract no longer exists in this country. Salaries and wages, the price at which things may be exchanged, and terms of payment, matters which in a free economy have been settled by agreement between employer and employe, or buyer and seller have been made subjects for official determination. Those who did not comply have been deprived of their businesses, fined by amounts running up to many thousands of dollars or imprisoned.

Freedom to choose a job has been abolished. Industries have been classified into those which could and those which could not hire help. Persons working in approved plants have not been free to change their employment when they chose. The use of materials has been subject to government approval. Many establishments have been compelled to close down.

Making automobiles, radios, washing machines, and other consumer durable goods was stopped, and only recently resumed on a small scale. Output of clothing, house furnishings and many other things has been restricted. We have been told what we could eat, how far we could travel, and how to heat our homes, with what fuel maintaining what temperature.

While the government was doing all these things and many others, it socialized the spending power of the people to a large extent. In 140 years the treasury of the United States paid out a total of 100 billion dollars. During the war the outgo was 100 billion dollars a year. This money was obtained in large part by taking over the incomes of individuals and the profits of business. Persons were required to turn over their incomes to the treasury on a graduated scale running up to 94 per cent. Those in the top bracket had to earn 15 dollars for the government, to have one for themselves. Successful corporations paid four dollars to the government to keep one.

Even socializing incomes brought in only half of what was required. The other half was obtained by the free use of the printing press in turning out currency, which bears no interest, short term notes which bear very little interest and savings bonds convertible into cash. Other bonds were turned over to the banks which paid for them by inflating their deposits.

Does peace mean that the dictatorship goes on? There are many who want it that way. The Socialists and the groups which have benefitted richly or think they have from the economic steps taken during the war want the war controls to go on forever. The war was looked upon as the heaven sent opportunity by the radical New Deal planners, old, intimate friends and followers of Prof. Harold Laski, the British labor party chief, whose plans to nationalize British industries have already been revealed. Others equally high in government councils insist that the inflationary spending shall go right on. They saw in the war an opportunity to discover how much inflation was necessary to attain full employment.

The civil service, which has extended to nearly 3 million from less than a million in 1939, has a vested interest in keeping all possible functions going, and does not mean to see the public job creating controls given up easily. Even many of the business men who went to Washington during the war have been so overwhelmed by the pleasant experience of issuing orders affecting the lives of the people in war time, that they are urging that the war time controls be continued. Some industrialists, who have advantages over their competitors because of an "in" don't want anything changed from the way it is.

With all these groups arrayed in keeping the war disciplines in effect, we are not going to get back our freedom soon without fighting for it.

Economic mobilization cannot be begun too soon. That means abandonment of all controls over men, materials, prices and wages. It means the canceling of war orders and the release from the army of all men not needed for occupation in Germany and Japan, not just the release of two or three million within a year. It means the speedy enactment of a tax measure repealing the excess profits tax and reducing the rates applicable to individuals and businesses.

The greatest problem with which we are faced is unemployment. A plausible case can be made against OPA as the greatest single obstacle to full production and full employment after the war. Price ceilings have the effect of preventing those from operating whose costs are higher than the ceiling. They reduce supplies, cut job opportunities and make rationing necessary on the one hand and relief on the other.

Perhaps an even stronger case can be made against the present tax system as the principal reason why jobs may be hard for the veterans to find. Taxes at prevailing rates cut off new enterprises from their supply of capital. Large and long successful companies can get all the capital they need, but growth requires new blood in business as elsewhere. A committee of experts, including some prominent in the New Deal, said in a statement last year that if "the deliberate aim were to hold down peace time employment, our tax system would go far to accomplish it."

Other war time controls are also entitled to consideration in this unpopularity contest. The main point is that all of them should go. Either you get rid of them in their entirety or you are stuck with them all. Price controls limit production, and create unemployment. That is desirable in war time because there is a man power shortage, but when man power is superfluous it leads to relief expenditures. A relief roll is paid for either by taxes, which discourage business, or by borrowing, which creates the danger of inflation. Price controls also make rationing necessary, which makes a rationing staff necessary—more expenditures.

War time controls won't work in time of peace. They only create new problems, which lead to more encroachments upon our freedom. Either we throw out the whole set of war time restraints at once, or we shall lose our freedom little by little until nothing is left.

CHICAGO: SCIENTIFIC CENTER OF THE WORLD

Last week almost everyone in the world claimed or was allotted credit for releasing atomic energy and making the atomic bomb possible. Even the Japanese attempted to cut themselves a share, asserting that the inventors had "drawn on Japanese sources."

Censorship has not yet permitted the public to know the full contribution made to the discovery by the University of Chicago, but enough facts have been released to show that it was the major center of research. Its own brilliant faculty in physics, chemistry, and related sciences was augmented by talent drawn from the whole free world. The investigators, with their assistants, numbered 5,000. The university's contribution was not limited to research in pure science. It also helped solve production problems.

Chicago has never had more reason to be proud of the university that bears its name. The accomplishments already made in what has become almost overnight the most important field of science are, moreover, only the beginning. The caliber of the men whom the university has just added to its faculty to staff its two new institutes of nuclear physics and of metals gives this city a just claim to be the world capital of atomic research.

Two Nobel prize winners, Prof. Harold C. Urey, the discoverer of "heavy water," who comes from Columbia university, and Enrico Fermi, the Italian physicist who chose exile to life under Mussolini, head the list of newcomers. Others are equally distinguished. They include Philip W. Schutz, professor of chemical engineering; Joseph E. Mayer, professor of chemistry, and his wife, Marie Goeppert Mayer, all from Columbia, and Edward Teller, professor of chemistry, from George Washington university.

There could be no better indication of who the scientific world thinks did the real job on atomic energy than this migration to Chicago by so distinguished a group. Scientists naturally will choose as the place to pursue their studies the university where the atmosphere, equipment, and the talents of the existing faculty make it easiest for them to achieve results.

Chancellor Hutchins, in announcing the new institutes, insisted the world must look to the free society of universities, rather than to either government or industry, for the basic discoveries on which real progress in harnessing the atom must depend. He is right.

Government spent $2,000,000,000 to get the atomic bomb, but it contributed almost literally nothing else. The army officers in nominal charge were actually little more than quartermasters for the scientists and engineers who supplied the ideas. Theoretically the latter may have been government employes. Actually they worked just as they would have worked in peace time, as members of their faculties or employes of private employers.

America does not have the overwhelming lead in basic research, so-called pure science, that some Americans think it has. Where America is preëminent is in industrial research, the application of the basic discoveries to practical use. In its laboratories, industrial and collegiate, it spends more than five times as much on applied science as it does on basic science. Applied science adapts great ideas. It rarely originates them.

Our knowledge of atomic energy has not reached the state where all that remains is to apply basic principles to practical use. Much fundamental knowledge is still to be uncovered. The industrial scientists will have their innings later. The universities have the bigger job to do first.

With a single minded purpose atomic energy, as we now know it, has been forged into the most terrible weapon of all time. No group of men has ever embarked upon a nobler enterprise than that newly undertaken by the University of Chicago, to tame that force and make it the servant of man.

NO MORE SECRETS

[Illinois State Journal-Register]

Science is a wonderful thing. Its triumphs are magnificent to behold. In fact, it is impossible for mere man, operating a mere typewriter, to uncover adjectives which adequately portray its greatness.

But there are drawbacks.

Television, for instance, will be anything but an unmixed blessing. When that day arrives it will be unsafe to install telephones near the bath tub. But that's only a minor difficulty.

When calling the little woman, to report that he will be detained at the office, friend husband had better be at the office. Television will squeal on him if he isn't.

And that's not all. Radio communication soon will be provided between a man's home and the highways. If the missis wants hubby to bring home a couple of pork chops—they'll come back some day—she can put in a call which her lord and master will receive en route. This, of course, depends upon his taking the right road home. Should he make a detour for business or other reasons, look out!

ATOMIC ANECDOTES

The most famous source of uranium, the stuff that atomic bombs and Japanese nightmares are made of, is a district called Joachimsthal in Bohemia. It is a valley in the foothills of the Erz mountains, close to the German border, and was under the control of the Nazis from the Munich appeasement of 1938 until American troops entered Bohemia shortly after V-E day.

The story of radium as well as uranium is associated with the Joachimsthal deposits of pitchblende. Maybe this does not surprise you, but wait: the American dollar was also born there. From silver mines in the region came the metal for coins that bore the image of St. Joachim, first minted in 1518, and these were called Joachimsthalers. The first use in English of the word "dollar," an altered pronunciation of the German "thaler," was applied to these coins.

Twenty years ago a story of atom-cracking in Japan caused a flurry in laboratories all over the world. A certain Nagaoka of Tokyo, of good standing among scientists, announced that by passing electrical charges across terminals of mercury and tungsten, he had obtained traces of gold. Apparently he had knocked one electron out of mercury's 80, which left 79, the atomic number of gold. A microscopic amount of this artificial gold was brought to the United States by Nagaoka on June 18, 1925. It seemed that the favorite dream of the medieval alchemists—"the philosopher's stone"—had come true.

Numerous experiments by other scientists soon proved that Nagaoka had fooled himself. In all cases except one, the traces of gold were found to have come from impurities in the mercury used. The single exception was more painful to Nagaoka, for the gold was traced to the frame of the eyeglasses worn and handled by the experimenter.

TO A GREYHOUND BUS

Every time you pass me by
I die a minor death,
Remembering a gentian sky,
The soft, nostalgic breath
Of pine-cleft air. These are the things
You represent to me;
And O, the hum of your motor brings
The sweetest memory
Of northern land, each plain and field
Their vivid greens unfurled
To thrill a heart that then revealed
No care in all the world.

We pack no more and hie away,
Duty's a chain with key.
Pass now, but on some distant day,
O, Nomad, wait for me!

"I'd like some atomic solution."

"About how much? I can give you enough to blow up the universe for 25 cents."

"No, that's too much territory."

"Well, I can give you enough to blow up Asia, Europe, and Africa, including the Azores, for 20 cents."

"No, we've done enough for those continents. Let them blow up themselves. Mine is a local problem."

"Perhaps you'd better tell me just what you want to accomplish."

"Well, there's a fly that buzzes around my head every morning and awakens me—"

"I see. That will cost you $8.01."

"But you said I could blow up the universe for 25 cents."

"The solution costs only 1 cent. The $8 goes to an attorney for drawing up your will."

ONE-BOMB KAMIKAZE

At Shinto shrines the frightened Nips
Swing censers, burn their punk, and blest:
"O, give us back our gallant ships;
Suzuki, where's our vanished fleet?"

They beg ancestors long defunct
To hustle up their holy breese
That saved them once when they were skunked
By hordes of conquering Chinese.

The Son of Heaven heard their plea;
Upon the Yanks he called a curse;
His Kamikaze proved to be
A holy zephyr in reverse.

A tiny speck from out the sky
Toward Hiroshima slowly fell;
A swarm of grinning Japs stood by:
No Japs—no town; all gone to Hell.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0800, gives personal interviews.]

C. S. A. asks: "Can a veteran of World War II, who was discharged a year ago and who now needs vocational rehabilitation as the result of an accident get this training from the government?"

No. Vocational training and rehabilitation under public law 16 is provided by the government for men who have service-connected disability and who are entitled to pension. Vocational training for veterans without service-connected cases is provided by the state of Illinois. Application should be made to the Illinois veterans' commission, 128 N. Wells st.

H. P. asks: "What is the difference between the distinguished service cross and distinguished service medal?"

The cross is awarded for extraordinary heroism in war and the medal for exceptionally meritorious service. The cross may be awarded only to those who have distinguished themselves in an operation against an enemy of the United States, whereas the medal may be given to any one in the army who has performed meritorious service in a duty of great responsibility.

D. H. asks: "If a man is drafted when he has three children, how long will it be before his family begins to receive an allotment and how much will they get?"

If application is made within 15 days, an initial allowance of $120 will be paid by the government within a few weeks. Thereafter, by making an allotment for $22 and claiming family allowance, monthly checks for $120 may be obtained. The government pays $50 for a wife, $30 for one child, and $20 for each additional child.

FOR HAY FEVER VICTIMS ONLY

HAY fever sufferers need not be warned to beware the Ides of August because they well know what is in store for them if they neglected their immunizing injections. Ragweed and allied plants, in most parts of the country, began to pollinate early this month and, by the 15th, air contamination will attain the symptom producing stage. This will continue until the temperature drops to below 50 degrees F., in October.

Many patients arrange their vacations to coincide with the season. If a region has been found which does not harbor their particular irritant, they make an annual pilgrimage. But this year, for one reason or another, more individuals will be forced to remain at home. What measures can be taken to obtain the maximum comfort?

If the victim is unprotected, and distress is present, daily injections of pollen may be started. The physician modifies the dose according to the atmospheric contamination. The weather bureau in many localities conducts daily pollen surveys and some newspapers include these data in their weather reports. According to Feinberg, a fair number start sneezing when the count is 5 to 10 grains per cubic yard; practically all exhibit symptoms at a level of 25. When we realize that it may reach 500 to 1,000 grains per cubic yard, we have some conception of the discomfort that will be encountered.

Palliative treatment with drugs by mouth or local applications is popular. The trouble is that allergies are so individualistic that the trial and error method must be employed to discover the value of any remedy. What aids one may make another worse. Ephedrine is the basis of many preparations and frequently relieves asthmatic manifestations and nasal congestion, but not sneezing. It is sometimes combined with sedatives.

Anything that reduces the amount of pollen coming into contact with the tissues will decrease irritation. The victim may be helped during the day by remaining at home or in the office, with windows and doors closed. Air conditioning is valuable but a cold temperature may prove annoying to some. Window filters are of benefit when they keep down the percentage of pollen entering the room, but not all the devices on the market do this. One elaborate machine, run by high voltage, is effective in this respect but will probably not be available for the duration.

Placing a folded handkerchief or a mask over the nose and mouth results in improvement by warming and moistening the air rather than by filtration of the noxious material. Nasal filters occasionally irritate the nose but often give relief mechanically by stretching the parts, thus providing more breathing space.

What are a few of the hygienic do's and don'ts for the sufferer? Avoid nose and throat operations during and immediately prior to the season, excessive fatigue, chilling, large meals, very cold foods and drinks, alcohol, dust of any type, heavy physical exertion, and weed patches. Recommended are tepid or hot baths, warm or hot meals and beverages, sleeping with the head slightly elevated, and adequate rest.

In case of continued rainfall or severe drouth during the hay fever period, pollen production and distribution will be cut down. Direction of the wind is also important. In central and northern states, those from the southwest are usually heavily laden whereas north winds are much clearer. Inhabitants of cities like Cleveland and Chicago are comfortable when breezes come in over the lake.

"Will you walk a little faster?" said
the emperor to the Japs,
"There's an atom close behind us and I fear we may collapse.
See how eagerly the Germans and
Italians said they'd quit,
They had the sense to ask for peace
before the atom split.
Will you, won't you, will you, won't

Will you, won't you, will you, won't

On the Threshold

One Chicago jeweler took precautionary measures Friday when the word of peace first came. He removed all treasure from his show windows, leaving only a chronometer and two American flags. Over the long week-end of uncertainty the clock ticked and the flags occasionally rippled unscathed. No crowd of celebrants came near. Not even a cluster.

It seems improbable that anything untoward will occur—the harming of either man or jewel—when The Day of peace is announced. There was none Friday, when all knew that the official announcement was around the corner. The world has seen and felt too much.

Too much death. Too long estrangements. Too much searing suspense. Too many numbing telegrams. Too much horror. Too many cruel nights and days and months. Too many Wellsian nightmares in full day. Too many bigger and better bombs.

Hollow the glow of victory, comforting tho it is, empty the paeans, sad the human mind, that in this 20th century we must lay bare the face of the earth and mark our carnage with white crosses. And tired the dweller on the earth, tired the weary and saddened at his experience with and knowledge of mankind.

All passion spent . . . and that is peace. Victory ours and peace the world's. There is much to do, and wearily we must start to pile the blocks back up, this time cementing them with something that will last.

Behind us now, pain and agony and torment. Before us, now here at hand, the post-war, with its need for great quiet and calm and wisdom. "I have a need of silence and the stars," wrote the poet, William Alexander Percy. The poet's need is now the world's.

Yes, indeed; they could have a good time; she lived "near the center of things." He came. They toured the loop, ending up at the Drake hotel near dawn. He hailed a cab. They drove and drove. The girl's home was 6700 south and a bit west. The next day he told her she was wrong about living in the center of things. His round trip ticket from Louisville cost $8. To take her home and return to his hotel cost $6. She thought it funny. He didn't.

CONTRAST IN SEEKING PERFECTION

Chicago, Aug. 8—Could there be a sharper contrast in method than that afforded by the recent so-called peace effort which produced the united nations charter, and the war effort which produced the atomic bomb?

On the one hand, in San Francisco we delegated to a heterogeneous aggregation of individuals representing some 50 nations the responsibility for evolving a plan to insure world peace. Added to these delegates were innumerable "consultants" possessing no other qualifications generally than the achievement of top place in some woman's federation, labor organization, or what have you. For nine weeks a flood of oratory, couched in a variety of tongues, telling the world of noble aspirations, etc., issued forth from the conference. Finally, after a lot of compromising and bargaining which left the noble aspirations hanging on the ropes, the charter was signed by all the delegates and President Truman proceeded triumphantly to dump it in the lap of the United States senate as a "must" for ratification. One week of public hearings; one week of debate in the senate, and all but three senators voted to ratify, without reservation or amendment, the instrument that was purported to be a plan for world peace.

Now, consider the vastly different technique of the war effort. Contrast the slap-dash patchwork which was to solve the problem of world peace with the carefully laid plans to perfect the newest instrument of war. Men of the highest reputation, with records of successful achievement in the physical sciences—Italian, German, British, Danish, American, Jewish—all recognizing and obeying scrupulously the universal laws of science, worked patiently for years on this project. Thousands upon thousands of fellow scientists, technicians, and as many as 125,000 skilled workers, with two thousand million dollars and more if needed at their disposal, worked silently and secretly for some three years to perfect this miracle of destruction.

Surely there is a lesson for us in this contrast. Do we think peace can be purchased by a lot of cheap talk and shabby compromises with the moral law while war requires the expenditures of colossal sums in time and money and a scientific technique that brooks not the slightest deviation from physical law? No; peace is not to be had until we are prepared to pay the price. Peace is the fruit of justice. When we are prepared to understand and abide by the moral laws governing human creation; when we are ready to expend the time and effort in establishing the conditions for peace that we now expend in preparation for war, then only can we dare hope for lasting peace, and national security. As Longfellow said: "Were half the power that fills the world with terror; were half the wealth that's spent on camps and courts, given to redeem the human mind from error, there were no need of arsenals or forts." Mrs. Grace Keefe.

THEY MAY BE ALIVE

Chicago, Aug. 7—In The Tribune recently I read that the Indianapolis chapter of the American Legion proposed that congress enact a bill directing that the thousand and one islands in the Pacific be searched for boys reported missing in action. To those who were smitten with loss, how much hope this brings.

If all the mothers, sisters, wives, and sweethearts of service men would urge passage of this bill, I feel certain that many boys who would otherwise be forced to spend years or perhaps their entire lives marooned on a plot of land hundreds of miles from nowhere would once again see their homes and families.

DO OFFICERS COME FIRST?

IN THE PACIFIC, Aug. 4—An article in our Daily Pacification published by the army, states that the war man power commission is trying to help carry the military caste system into civilian life by giving officers the first crack at the best jobs. The possibility of discrimination against enlisted personnel in favor of officers in post-war positions has long been lurking in the back of many men's minds.

I am not well informed as to exactly what duties and powers the war man power commission has or will have. I am convinced, however, that if their work is to be conducted along the lines mentioned, they had best be dissolved. I, for one, did not spend two years overseas, with the good possibility of spending perhaps one more, in order that officers will "not have to alter their standard of living," as the WMC put it, when the war ends. I expect very little myself from any government agency, but there are many men younger and less well established than myself who will definitely need help in obtaining post-war employment.

PLENTY BY SCARCITY

Chicago, Aug. 6—I am a disabled veteran of World War I. I was laid off my last job because of the cancellation of an army contract. On account of disability I cannot do heavy work or lifting. The manager of an essential industry then offered me a good job, to take charge of the shipping department. The man now in charge was to be promoted to a new job, which was to be created, supervising, in place of that which I was taking. The manager went to the WMC to get permission to open this new job. He was refused.

This great administration wants 60 million jobs. Go to any United States employment service office and see how many people are sitting around unemployed. Just as in the pig killing days, we apparently are going to have plenty by scarcity.

The Iowa Poll

DIVIDE EQUALLY ON NEW BENEFITS FOR UNEMPLOYED

DES MOINES IOWA — Iowans appear equally divided in their opinion of Pres. Truman's recommendation that the unemployment insurance benefits be raised to $25 a week, THE IOWA POLL finds.

On the question of raising the unemployment benefits to $25, Iowans' opinion split thus:

	Total	City	Town	Farm
Yes	44%	50%	48%	35%
No	44	39	45	49
No opinion	12	11	7	16

Among Roosevelt voters, 51% favored the pay raise to $25 and 39% opposed it, while 31% of Dewey voters were in favor of it with 57% opposed.

Among union members, 68% favored the proposal and 27% were against it, while of those without union connections, 40% favored the idea, and 47% were against it.

Iowa System

When asked whether they thought the Iowa unemployment system, which pays up to $18 for 18 weeks, was sufficient, farmers were strongest in their belief that it was enough, while city people gave their approval more hesitantly.

Among union members, over 50% did not think the $18 was sufficient, while among those without union connections, 66% favored this amount.

Asked whether Iowa's plan for unemployment benefits was enough, Iowans responded:

	Total	City	Town	Farm
Yes	82%	84%	85%	78%
No	10	10	8	13
Too much	4	3	3	7
No opinion	4	4	4	3

Iowans believe the state should decide who is entitled to receive unemployment benefits, 64% being of that opinion, with 26% favoring federal government control, and 10% having no opinion.

Of the union members, 51% favored state control, 44% federal, and 5% had no opinion.

INLAND STEEL CO. STRIKERS HOOT COMPANY, WLB

10,000 Out at Plant; All Work Halted

More than 2,000 striking steelworkers from among the 10,000 who have shut the Inland Steel company's East Chicago plant, left a meeting at 3436 Michigan st., East Chicago, yesterday to parade thru the streets of the suburb shouting defiance of the company, their international union, and the war labor board.

Marching from the hall where they had jeered Joseph Jeneske, international representative of the United Steel Workers (CIO), who urged them to return, the striking members of local 1010, USWA, paraded past the No. 1 and No. 2 plants of the company. An enlarged photostatic copy of a WLB telegram ordering their return, which the company had placed on the main clockhouse drew boos and catcalls.

Vote to Stay off Job

The parade followed the report of the local's executive committee to rank and file members accusing the company of labor baiting and mishandling a minor grievance until it became a major strike issue. A voice vote affirmed the intention of the strikers to remain out until the company reinstates three disciplined employes with full back pay.

The men over whose discharge the strike began are William Maihofer, a motor inspector disciplined for taking a vacation after he had accepted vacation pay in lieu of idle time last March, and two grievance committee men, E. C. Johnson and Harry Powell.

Production Is Stopped

Production of steel at the plant was stopped completely, the company reported, in the worst shutdown since 1937. F. M. Gillis, general superintendant, termed unprecedented a reported threat by the union to withdraw maintenance crews totaling 500 men. Such action would cause serious and unestimated damage to the entire plant, Gillies said.

Loud speakers carried the activities of the meeting to an overflow crowd outside the union hall. Speakers pointed out that the plant has had fewer work stoppages and strikes during the war than any other steel plant in the Chicago area.

Another meeting of the union membership to hear developments in the strike is set for 2 p. m. today at the same address.

Six of the nine plants of the American Steel Foundries company continued idle after 5,000 workers quit on Friday. Three of the plants are in East Chicago, Hammond, and Galesburg, Ill. The strike is over a new contract.

SPIKE RUMORS OF V-J LETUP ON WAR PROFITEERS

Victory over Japan, bringing an end to World War II., will see no letup in the government's campaign against war profiteers, heads of federal agencies conducting the drive said yesterday.

The first to discount the rumor that the government might ease up on the prosecution of war cheaters was United States Atty. J. Albert Woll.

"The cases I have right now will be prosecuted vigorously, and any others that the various agencies bring to me will be taken into court," he said.

Nigel D. Campbell, collector of internal revenue for this district, said there would be no easing of his campaign to collect taxes from those who have "reaped a harvest" because of the war. The office of price administration also is expected to continue its activities under President Truman's reconversion program. Agents of the FBI internal revenue, secret service, and other federal agencies have swarmed into the OPA offices here during the last few weeks attempting to complete portions of investigations.

CHARGE MOTHER NEGLECTS FOUR SMALL CHILDREN

A charge of contributing to the dependency of her four children was signed yesterday against Mrs. Margaret Bennecke, 27, of 3441 Justine st., wife of a soldier in Germany.

Police, summoned by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Edward Bennecke, who lives next door, seized her at 11 p. m. Saturday when she returned from a round of taverns on which she had been accompanied by her son, Earl, 3, and Mary Jane O'Rourke, 18, and Lorraine Urbanski, 19, who live with her.

Sleeping on the springs of a rickety bedstead were the three other Bennecke children, Richard Jr., 7; Thomas, 4, and Jane, 5. The mother-in-law told police their mother habitually left them alone while she was out with the younger women. Misses O'Rourke and Urbanski, who are not employed, were charged with disorderly conduct.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

Aug. 12, 1945

FAN ventilation of hay mows is a comparatively new development which has proved successful on the Wheaton farm and many other middle western farms. The excellent results obtained from curing hay in the mow by means of ventilating fans is causing progressive farmers to ask if the same process may not be used for drying corn in the crib.

This subject is especially important this season because thousands of middle western farmers fear that an early frost may make it necessary to harvest soft corn this fall. Corn was planted late because of heavy spring rains, and unseasonably cool summer weather has further delayed corn growth.

Weather Threat Great

Unless the late August and September weather is favorable, there is danger that thousands of acres of corn may not mature before frost time.

The men on the Wheaton farm are considering the following project if they are forced to harvest soft corn this fall: They may transfer the duplex ventilating fans and the five horsepower motor from the haymow to a platform just outside the concrete wall of the corn crib. A duct could be built from the fans to the conical ventilating ducts already installed in the crib. If the corn must be harvested with a high moisture content, it could be elevated into the crib and dried by air forced thru the ducts by the fans.

Agricultural engineers have been consulted. They say such a plan is feasible. It may be necessary to build lateral ducts to emanate from the cone shaped vertical ducts now present in the crib.

Tests also will have to be made to determine if the present set of fans will draw sufficient air to dry the corn in a crib filled to capacity. If not, it may be necessary to buy additional fans to insure satisfactory ventilation. A second prospect is that a temporary partition may be built in the crib, permitting a portion of the storage space to be filled. After the corn in this area is dried, the fans could be moved and the remainder of the crib could be filled and ventilated.

Engineers will examine the corn crib on the Wheaton farm this week. After they take measurements and make tests, it will be possible to tell more definitely if this plan is workable.

★ The GARDEN ★

SQUASH vine borers are not as common this year as in past seasons, but gardeners who are raising any variety of squash should watch for evidences of this insect. The borers penetrate into squash vines just at or slightly above the ground level, destroying the stalk cells which transport water thru the plant. A withering of the leaves on one or more of the stalks in a hill is evidence of borers. The insects also leave powdered remains similar to sawdust at the point of entry, providing a second clue to their presence.

No insecticide is effective against squash vine borers after they enter the stems. Gardeners can use a razor blade to kill the insects. The blade should be inserted into the stem at the point of the insects' entry, making the slit the length of the stem rather than across it. This insertion will kill the insect. Soil should then be mounded over the stem wound to prevent air drying.

MYSTERY BLAST IN FLAT BUILDING UNDER INQUIRY

Fire and police department officials were investigating a mysterious blast which early yesterday caused $2,500 damage to a two story building at 4708 Grace st. and sent two persons to the hospital with slight injuries.

Mrs. Mary Morton, 25, a recently discharged navy nurse, received bruises and suffered shock when the main force of the explosion shattered her basement apartment, and Carl Breede, 32, was cut by flying glass in his second floor apartment.

Division Marshal James Furlong, who estimated the damages, said the blast emanated apparently from a basement laundry room, demolishing the rear porch and stairway of the building.

$4.21 TAX RATE ESTIMATED FOR CHICAGO IN '45

The Civic Federation yesterday issued a tentative estimate that the 1945 property tax rate would increase to $4.21 for Chicago. The 1944 rate was $3.97 on the $100 assessed valuation, which was 7 cents higher than the 1943 rate.

Two bond issues—26 million dollars for the city and 24 millions for the park district—were approved in June as the outgrowth of the adoption by Assessor John S. Clark of a full value tax assessment basis for Cook county. In the federation's 12th annual study of the debts, taxes, and assessments of the six major local governments, Executive Secy. Douglas Sutherland said the $4.21 estimate may be reduced by abatements in several of the bond and interest levies now on file.

Valuation May Be Lowered

"There may be, however, a reduction in the total valuation, which would offset, or more than offset, such anticipated abatements," he added. "Chicago's 1944 tax rate continues to be the second highest of comparable rates among United States cities of over 500,000 population."

The report said the total debt load of the six major Chicago governments dropped $29,992,830 in 1944 and at the end of the year was $270,855,154. The gross bonded debt was $80.44 per capita. The figures covered the city, board of education, park district, county, forest preserve, and sanitary district.

"The excellent record of the Chicago community in public debt reduction in the past decade without question is largely due to the constitutional debt limitation of 5 per cent and the decided depression of assessed valuations on the 37 per cent basis," Sutherland continued.

Greater Vigilance Needed

"With the greatly enlarged debt incurring ability of public bodies, brought about by the 1943 shift to a 100 per cent assessment basis, greater citizen vigilance is needed to guard against undue increases in the total bonded debt."

In its summary of the financial activities of local officials, the federation said:

"All pay rolls were met regularly in 1944. The total of unpaid bills and judgments dropped sharply, primarily due to the improved situation of Cook county, but the situation of the city's corporate fund deteriorated somewhat."

9 YEAR OLD ACCUSED BY TWO MORE BOYS OF SADISTIC ATTACKS

Two more children made complaints yesterday against a 9 year old boy who was arrested Saturday night after sadistic attacks on two girls, 8 and 3 years old, and a boy, 4. The girls said he stripped off their clothing and pelted them with stones, and the 4 year old boy said his assailant tried to drown him.

The later complaints, made by two boys, said the 9 year old attacked them in the neighborhood of Fullerton and Clybourn avs. They will appear to identify him at a show-up at 9 a. m. today at Albany Park police station.

Juvenile authorities had the 9 year old boy in custody yesterday. They said he admitted the three attacks charged against him Saturday. He lives on the northwest side with his mother.

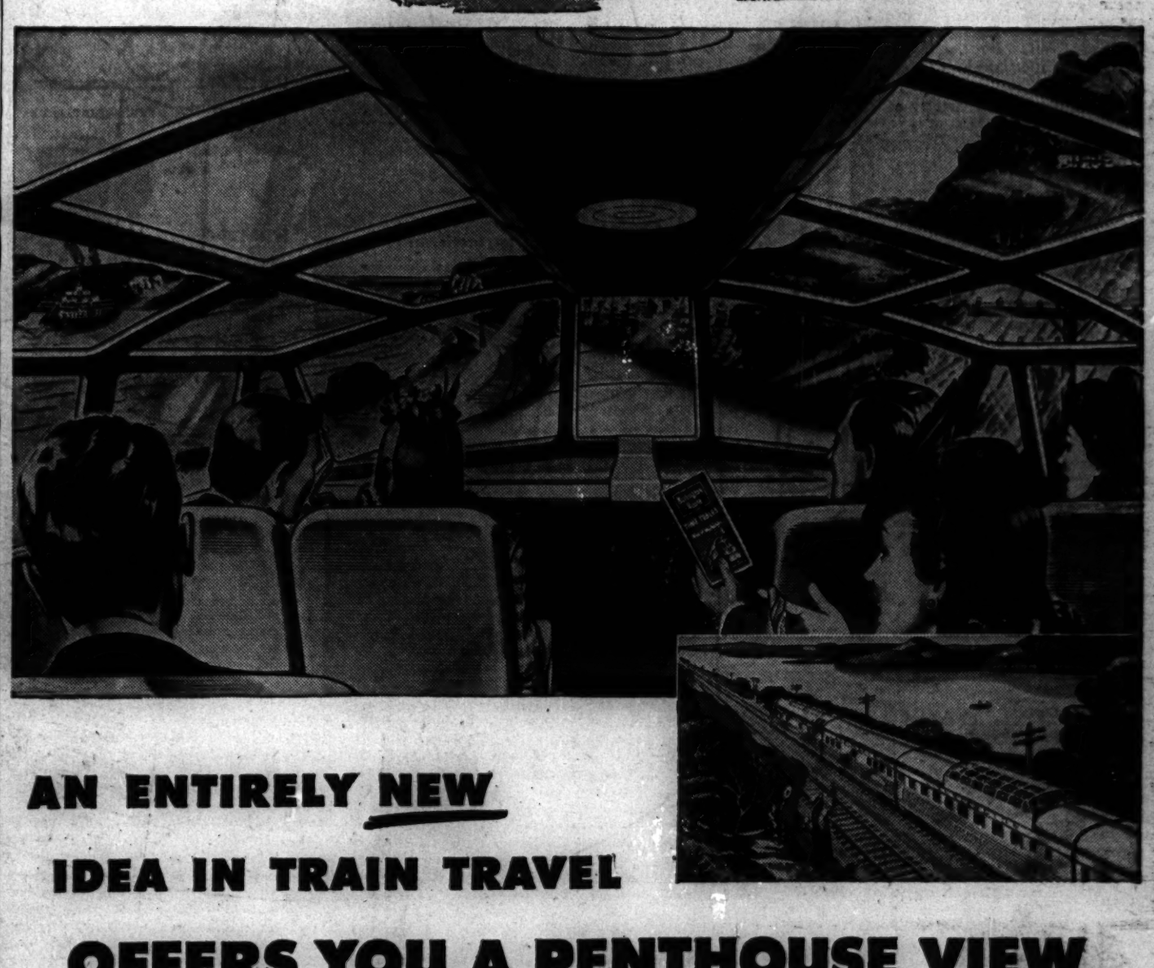
THE BURLINGTON PRESENTS

...THE Vista-Dome



AN ENTIRELY NEW IDEA IN TRAIN TRAVEL

OFFERS YOU A PENTHOUSE VIEW

IT'S HERE—our first "penthouse" railway car! An innovation which adds an entirely new perspective to train travel. In this new type car, 24 passengers are seated in the Vista-Dome, a laminated, heat and ray-resisting glass penthouse replacing a section of the roof and providing an unobstructed view in all directions. Deep-cushioned seats and modern air-conditioning afford complete comfort.

This unique car is a streamlined, stainless steel Burlington Zephyr coach, remodeled to include the penthouse feature of General Motors' newly-designed "Astra-Liner." Wartime demands for materials have prevented construction of a completely new car now. Consequently, certain conveniences and refinements anticipated for future cars of this type have, of necessity, been omitted.

The first Vista-Dome car is now in service. It is being operated in various Burlington trains, affording many travelers an opportunity to enjoy this dramatic innovation. If the public likes the Vista-Dome idea, and if this new type car proves itself in operation, the Burlington plans a fleet of these cars for the future—a fleet which will give Burlington travelers new scenic thrills from the luxurious quarters of a "penthouse on wheels."

FEDERAL AGENCY TO SELECT N. W. HIGHWAY ROUTE

City and County Unable to Reach Agreement

BY ROBERT HOWARD

Highway officials said yesterday that the governmental unit which provides funds for a super-highway northwest across Chicago would be allowed to settle a controversy about its route. Such an expressway would lead to the Douglas airport near Park Ridge, where air line engineers want to locate Chicago's future air terminals.

The debate centers in two routes proposed for the post-war project:

By ordinance, the city council on April 3 stipulated that the northwest route should stay west of the Chicago river and follow the Chicago and North Western railway's Wisconsin division right of way most of the way to Foster av. The cost was estimated at 49 million dollars in a recent report by the engineering board of review.

County Recommended Route

After an extensive survey, the Cook county highway department in 1940 recommended a route along Clybourn and Elston avs. South of Division st., the route would follow the west side of Sedgwick st. It would run east of Clybourn av., cross the Chicago river at Barry av. and continue on the west side of Elston av. until it turned westward about Catalpa av., a block south of Bryn Mawr av.

The county estimated at that time that the route would cost 30.5 million dollars and said the railroad route would run 32.8 millions on the then prevailing market for labor and materials.

Several other routes have been proposed, but only these two have official status. The Chicago plan commission has adopted the railroad route but, like the city department of subways and super-highways, has indicated that its mind could be changed if some one with money would be stubborn about another right of way.

Will Meet Higgins Rd.

Whatever the decision, the northwest super-highway eventually would connect with Higgins rd., which will be a future expressway past the Douglas airport and into new suburban developments in the northwest part of Cook county.

The county highway department is ready to construct a branch line, paralleling Cicero av., which, thru northern Cook county, would be the Edens expressway and replace Skokie rd. [U. S. 41] as the main traveled route.

The city route would stay on the southwest side of the railroad [Avondale av.] until the vicinity of Addison st. There it would cross to the northeast and hug the railroad embankment.

Much of the engineering debate centers on whether the northwest super-highway should provide connections from the north or the west into the present loop area. So far no agreement has been reached about serving the growing business district along Michigan av. to Oak st.

POLICE ARREST PROBATIONER ON GIRL'S CHARGES

Porter E. Duke, 36, of 1400 E. 53d st., who was arrested in Flossmoor Saturday night on the complaint of a 17 year old girl, was charged with disorderly conduct yesterday and released on $200 bond to appear tomorrow before Magistrate W. P. Gilbert in the Flossmoor police court. Police said Duke is on probation from Criminal court on a charge of taking indecent liberties with a child. The Flossmoor girl said he followed her for half a block on Flossmoor rd. from the Illinois Central station.

OFFER OF $5,000 BILLS FOR $4,500 GOES BEGGING!

Shady Dealers Eager to Shed 'Evidence'

Black market operators and income tax dodgers were reported yesterday to be offering $1,000 and $5,000 bills at a discount to get $5, $10, and $20 bills. They were said to be doing this because of the treasury's request that banks report suspicious dealings in large denomination bills.

Chicago bankers said they had heard many reports of persons offering large denomination bills at a discount to get ready money, but added it is virtually impossible to pin the stories down because no one will admit a part in such transactions.

One banker said he knows of the apparently authentic case of a west side merchant who was offered a 10 per cent fee for changing a number of $5,000 bills—which would have meant $500 profit on each $5,000 bill. The merchant was advised to pass up the offer.

The Chicago banker explained that ever since the government convicted Al Capone of income tax evasion by tracing his bank deposits, gangsters have been wary of bank accounts.

The Chicagoan said he had been told of a New Yorker who came to Chicago with forty $1,000 bills which he was offering for $700 apiece. He could get only $650 in New York.

O. J. Peterson, assistant in charge of the United States secret service here, said he had heard stories about persons discounting big bills to avoid investigation.

Peterson said one man called and asked if it was illegal to purchase a $1,000 bill for $750. He said he warned the man he could be charged with conspiracy.

'SUNDAY ONLY' STRIKES TIE UP BRITISH RAILS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 12—"Sunday only" strikes paralyzed most rail traffic in northern and northwestern Britain today for the third week-end in succession despite the fact the country's 500,000 rail unionists were granted wage increases Friday after lengthy negotiations with the operators.

The one day strikers are not satisfied with their pay increases of $1.40 a week altho they asked only a little more. Such important northern hubs as Liverpool, Manchester, Chester, and Crewe were almost idle while other stoppages affected Welsh holiday centers.

Because strikes crippled services of channel boats, 7,000 British soldiers on leave from Europe were stranded at Dover and Folkestone overnight while another 7,000 had to wait out a strike in Calais because they were unable to cross the channel.

PLANT CLOSES; WORKERS HOLD PROTEST PARADE

About 450 employes of the Oakes Products division of the Houdaille-Hershey corporation in North Chicago paraded the streets of Waukegan and North Chicago yesterday after a meeting to protest the plant's two weeks closing for reconversion from war production.

Thomas H. Nelson, secretary of local 992, United Auto Workers [CIO], said the plant closed last Friday in violation of a union contract which calls for 10 days negotiations before a work stoppage. The plant has manufactured shell cartons and tank tread links.

Two resolutions adopted at the meeting called on President Truman to rescind an order against premium pay for Sundays and holidays and the scrapping of the Little Steel formula for wage increases.

Carrying banners asking for "60 million jobs now" and "jobs for all at workable pay," the men then poured into the street, complaining the company had shipped tools and dies to several non-union plants.

The company reported the closing as an operational suspension due to the end of the war.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠K Q J 8 ♥A K 10 7 3 ♦A 8 6 4 ♣A
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	2 clubs	Pass	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. Despite partner's refusal to act, drastic action is in order with a hand of this power. A bid of two spades would not do justice to the holding. The double takes care of everything and affords partner four options. He may return to hearts, bid diamonds or spades, or leave the double in if he has some values in clubs. That would be fun.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠J 6 ♥J 10 5 ♦A 3 ♣A J 9 6 4 2
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 club	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. Since partner has previously passed, his response is not forcing. Your hand, however, despite its meagre honor trick holding, has prospects of developing a number of tricks in the play. The sixth club is a most important consideration and the wealth of intermediates argues in favor of aggressive action.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠9 6 2 ♥10 4 3 ♦A 5 ♣K Q J 9 2
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 no trump	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Six no trump. Simple arithmetic is recommended at this point. Partner has promised 5½ honor tricks and you have 3½. That adds up to pretty nearly the whole deck. To put it in another way, you can take five tricks and the two no trump bidder should be able to take between six and seven, that gives you a reasonable chance. There is no danger of partner going on to an unmakeable grand slam, because surely he could expect no more than this from a passing partner.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠7 ♥Q 10 9 7 ♦A J 5 4 ♣A Q 9 4
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Double	2 spades	?

What do you bid?

A.—Three spades. There is no other adequate bid. With almost three honor tricks and favorable distribution, opposite a partner who is strong enough to double, you should seriously contemplate the possibilities of a slam in one of your three suits. The best procedure is to force partner to select the suit, by making a cue bid, even the bid involves a little poetic license, about your spade holding.

Q. 5—You are South, opponents are vulnerable, and you hold:
♠Q J 8 ♥A K J 4 2 ♦7 3 ♣K 7 6
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Double	Redouble	1 spade
Pass	2 no trump	Pass	3 spades
Pass	4 spades	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Let's not be naive about this thing. It is agreed by all parties that we are not employing a pleasant deck so that some one of the table is playing horse. The one under suspicion is your non-vulnerable partner rather than one of your vulnerable adversaries who have plenty of chips at stake. If by some strange chance it should turn out that the adversaries have gone berserk, then partner will have a second opening bid and in view of the strength shown by your redouble he will increase the hard himself.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠10 5 4 ♥Q J 3 ♦K Q J 9 7 ♣J 4
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
1 spade	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump. Inasmuch as you have a perfectly sound response, you should reply to your partner's showing of a new suit, even though it is not a force. It is better to show the balanced nature of your hand and the heart stopper than to indicate a rebiddable diamond suit.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠5 ♥A 10 8 2 ♦J 10 7 ♣A J 9 5 3
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	1 heart	2 clubs	2 spades
3 diamonds	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. This bid is primarily intended to permit partner to contract for game at no trump, if his hand is suited for the purpose. If not, there should be no serious doubt about the desirability of contracting for game in diamonds, since partner has made a voluntary rebid at the level of three. If he bids a slam, your hand should not be disappointing.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠9 7 5 4 ♥10 7 2 ♦J 5 ♣A 9 6 3
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. While you actually prefer clubs, this bid is preferable since you do not desire to raise to the four level and set the stage for an eleven trick contract. Partner almost surely has five hearts. If he had four hearts and four clubs he would in all probability have opened with one club.

'The Last Hill' Recalls Heroes of Sevastopol

"THE LAST HILL"

Produced by Artkino Pictures, directed by Alexander Zarkhi and Josef Kheifis, featuring Nikolai Krioukhov, Marina Pastukhova, Boris Andreyev, Anton Kharara, Nikolai Dorokhin, Fedor Ischenko, Nikolai Gorlov, Evgeni Frosy, Yegor Tkachouk, and Emrah Loshava. Presented at the World Playhouse.

By Mae Tinée

Altho this film has a dramatic story to tell, it is not as well done as many of the Russian films. It concerns the survivors of the crew of a Russian destroyer, which had been attacked and sunk when bringing in supplies to the besieged city of Sevastopol. The six men who are the sole survivors make their way to shore to take part in the fighting. In a desperate attempt to hold back the enemy, they salvage the ship's guns and set them up at a key point. They are joined by a woman who came seeking her husband. All the men die defending the city, but the Germans finally win it, at great cost to themselves.

The action is jumpy and difficult to follow at times, and the entire film seemed theatrical in contrast to the realism and simplicity of many Russian productions.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 12—The Walter Pidgeon-Greer Garson combination would seem to be put on ice for the present at M-G-M. Walter's next is a co-starring picture with Ilona Massey—"Holiday in Mexico." His last, if you remember, was with Ginger Rogers. Joseph Pasternak's producing the Mexican story and will back up a red-hot technicolor screen with some of the Xavier Cugat music. Cugat makes his singing debut in this one. He wrote his own number, "Yo Teamo Mucho," which needs no translation. George Sidney will be directing, and you'll find Jane Powell's name in the cast.

Turn About Is a Good Play

When Producer-Author Ernie Pagano's cook, Mary Nobel, had a day off last week, she hied her down to the "Queen for a Day" program and won the scepter and ermine over 1,500 contenders. Mary charmed the judges by her wish to be waited on for 24 hours since "I spend all my time waiting on others." Now Ernie has joined in the bidding for screen rights. Don't crowd, boys!

At the Usual Interest?

When the Cornel Wildes bought their new home in Beverly Hills, they borrowed the down payment from Nat Goldstone. Sure it was a neat sum—it's a very neat house. Three days later Cornel's wife received part of her inheritance from her grandpa's estate quite unexpectedly. It more than covered the debt to Goldstone, so they cleared it off. Now Cornel's in debt to his wife, professionally known as Patricia Knight—but what Hollywood hasn't known up to now, a member of the wealthy Clark-Heinzen clan of Boston. . . . Another young man who has been hiding his light under a bushel is young William Carter, recently signed by Frank Borzage for the lead in "Concerto." Bill's first go at Hollywood was unsuccessful eight years ago. He's the son-in-law of Dwight Deere Wyman with social pull along with money, but he preferred to get there the hard way.

Jackie, the Kid, Is Okay

When the Victory committee couldn't get any big name stars on short notice for their Texas-Arizona go, Lt. Jackie Coogan, who recently was discharged from service, volunteered. He gave six shows for three B-29 Super Fortress camps. My hat's off to the kid, he's okay. . . . This holds good and then some for two of our movie gals—Frances Langford and Anne Baxter—who've declared their intention of carrying on their entertaining of the boys for the rest of their lives. Elsie Janis is the only one of our stars who did this for the boys of World War I. I hope Frances and Anne's example will spread to our official agencies who've done such splendid work all thru the war. Let's not forget the boys who can't take an active part in the benefits of peace.

Some Names and Numbers

What a laugh William Gargan got from this letter a soldier friend of his in China sent: "No wonder all the GI's flock to the Chinese musical shows. Not only do they give out the girls' names, but their telephone numbers as well. This is done so that producers can get this information if they want the girls in future productions. But the kids copy them down, too."

The Retort Courteous

On the "Leave Her to Heaven" set, Gene Tierney, looking at Cornel Wilde, says: "I'm staring at you because you look so much like your father." To which he replies: "I was doing a lot of staring myself—but not because you look like my mother." . . . Clark Gable is off on a 10 day vacation after 65 days of work. He will rest at his ranch. This leaves all the scenes to Greer Garson and Joan Blondell, who do nothing but talk. Do I hear you say "Leave Her to Heaven?" Wrong—it's "Big Shore Leave."

What's in a Dame?

Dame May Whitty's just bursting with talent. She has signed a contract to record three albums of poetry to music. More power to her! . . . Sam Wood's determined to get one of those co-eds, who are all the rage right now, for his first independent production, "The Land Is Bright." When Judy Gilmore turned him down, he snapped up 20 year old Edna Rotine from the University of Arizona. . . . Bobby-soxers are giving plenty of attention to Richard Wallace. He's married as well as good-looking but the fabulous soxers care nothing for that—Bing, Frankie, Haymes are all family men.

What's Mervyn's Problem?

Mervyn Leroy tests for "Thanks God I'll Take It From Here" in the morning, ditto for "The Robe" of afternoons. But we're not fooled. His problem is what to do with the lengthy title, not getting actors. . . . Jess Adler, who has spent a lifetime making runts into six-footers via specially built shoes, takes off his own lifts when he wants to get away from it all. He says the letdown is terrific. And Glenn Gray tells the one about the elephant that went on a bender and kept seeing pink Frank Bucks!

Sane Summer Program Will Benefit Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

(Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

A mother writes, "My boy never looks tired and thin in the summer, because I follow what is almost a routine with him—one you suggested. I believe it would help others if you repeated it."

With the dog days of August and the enervating heat of early September ahead of us, I can afford to emphasize again the advice referred to by this mother.

Let his active play take place in the cooler part of the day.

See that he has quiet but interesting play in the heat of the day, and also at intervals to rest him.

Several showers or sponge baths a day are relaxing as well as cooling.

Conserve his energy also by having him lie down or sleep in a cool, shaded place [not in a draft] during the day, and by having him get plenty of sleep at night, regardless of long evenings and daylight saving.

Avoid iced drinks, especially in any quantity, and an excess of fresh fruits or rich sweets. Some stewed fruits are advisable in summer as well as winter; some of the delicious fruits on the summer markets are quite delectable when freshly stewed, especially if you don't cook them too long. With a cooky or good plain cake, or a little cream they make a delicious and nourishing dessert.

Be careful of food or water contamination during the summer. This includes washing all fruits; washing all milk bottles; getting rid of flies; being sure milk is "safe" if you go away from home to visit or stay; being sure water is safe, and this applies to bathing as well as drinking.

Salzburg Festival Opens at Reception for Army Leaders

SALZBURG, Austria, Aug. 12 (AP)—The revival of the Salzburg music festival, unfettered by the Nazis for the first time since 1937, began tonight in the 300 year old Feltspielhaus with a reception for Gen. Mark Clark and other military officials.

The festival is being held this year at the behest of the American military government as an aid to the restoration of Austrian culture. It will include 20 nights of musical and theatrical entertainment, running from Aug. 13 to Sept. 1.

Bertil Wetzelsberger will conduct the festival symphony tomorrow night in the first of five concerts.

The operatic artists include Julius Patsak, Walter Carnuth, Rosa Schwaiger, Esther Rethy, and the Swiss composer, organist, and conductor, Ludwig Weber. Other conductors include Eugen Jochum.

Baby Articles Are Sought by Needy Family

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Perhaps readers whose children have outgrown initial babyhood equipment will be interested in offering it to needy families whose insufficient income prohibits such purchases.

A south side social worker would like to obtain a buggy for the youngest member of the G. family, a baby girl, who has become too active for the clothes basket in which she has been sleeping. She is one of four healthy children of a young couple who have plodded thru successive adversities, including a fire which destroyed all their belongings, and sickness necessitating a series of operations, which precluded the husband's employment. A buggy, in addition to providing a better sleeping arrangement for the child, would enable her, as well as the mother, who consistently overworks in an effort to care for her home and family, to get some needed sunshine.

Mrs. X., who lives on the west side, has recently become the mother of a baby boy, her first child. Because of her husband's illness, and the additional bills entailed thereby, it was impossible to make adequate preparations for the infant, consequently, he is in need of clothing of all kinds and a crib.

Mrs. K., widowed mother of two little boys, 2 years old and 7 months old, is dependent upon relief for support. The present grant is barely enough for subsistence, and it is necessary for her to use the utmost resourcefulness to manage at all. An icebox to keep perishable foods and the milk for the baby from spoiling, a small crib, and clothing for both children are most urgently needed.

Mrs. L. W. Todd, Burbank, Cal.—When washing the outside of a window pane use an up and down stroke. Use a side to side stroke for the inside. Then, if any marks are left, it's easy to tell which side needs a bit of extra shining.

Mrs. Ruth K., Chicago—When a room is very hot, I drop a few ice cubes into a vase of fresh flowers. It's a good way to keep flowers from wilting rapidly when the temperature soars.

Mrs. Howard F., Peoria, Ill.—To remove an old dried paint stain from a washable fabric, I rub the spot with vaseline and then sponge with turpentine. After this, laundering is simple.

Mrs. Arthur G., Chicago — To avoid getting fresh eggs mixed with older ones, I mark a cross on any leftover eggs before adding new eggs to my refrigerator container. It's easy then to spot the older ones and use them first.

Lucy H., Elgin—A draft is healthy for a rain coat. When mine has been drenched, I wipe off all possible moisture and hang it in a doorway so air can circulate thru it.

Mrs. Mildred C. Barber, Urbana, Ill. — When serving iced tea, I squeeze lemon juice into a small pitcher and pass it around to family or guests. This eliminates messy fingers and possible lemon juice spots on clothes and table linen.

Tennis Courts Converted Into a Playground

BY JUDITH CASS

FOR several years two small groups of tennis enthusiasts have been enjoying the use of courts on the near north side. One plays on the court to the rear of the ivy covered Potter Palmer home in Lake Shore dr. The other has been using two courts in Chestnut st., just east of Michigan av.

The latter courts, however, have been converted for the time being into a playground for children, and the youngsters who used to be kept on the sideline while their parents disported on the courts now have the run of the space. In addition, there is a jungle gym, a sandbox, and a slide to entertain them.

Mrs. Lewis C. Davis, Mrs. Robert Doyle, Mrs. Erle Baker, and Mrs. Carl Stelling, who all live adjacent to the courts in Chestnut and Pearson sts., take their children daily to the converted playground. Mrs. Carl B. Bingham Jr. and her children were regular visitors, also, until the Binghams went east to spend the summer.

Walter Frazier, now back in civilian clothes, and Edward V. Platt were among the organizers of the group which plays on the Palmer court, and since most of the group's members now have children, a small gathering of youngsters usually is visible in the background while the parents play.

The John Cromelins,' the Noel Flints, the Platts, and Mr. Platt's brother-in-law and sister, the William C. Leffs, who moved here from New York a year ago, play regularly on the court. Mrs. Seymour Offutt, whose husband is overseas, and Mrs. Graham Fairbank, whose navy husband is here on leave following overseas duty and before reporting to Washington, D. C., are other members of the group. Mr. Frazier comes in occasionally from Aurora to play.

Service News

News of the death of Capt. Gaylord Dillingham, who previously was reported missing in action with the army air forces, has saddened Chicago friends of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Dillingham of Honolulu. The youngest son of Mr. Dillingham and the former Louise Gaylord of Chicago was shot down in action July 24 over Japan. His plane, which was flying in first position over its target at an altitude of 16,000 feet, burst into flames and fell apart after being caught by searchlight beams and riddled with flak. Capt. Dillingham was the only pilot out of 360 who failed to return from the mission. His wife, the former Constance Shepard, is with her parents, the Roger B. Shepards, in St. Paul, Minn.

Birth Announcements

Young Mrs. Lord, the former Zo de La Chapelle, and the baby will stay with her parents until Lt. Lord's return.

Debut Notes

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Seaverns Jr. are hoping that their younger son, Corp. Joseph Seaverns of the marines, will be home from the South Pacific for a debut party which they will give this fall or Christmas for their daughter, Mary Clair. Miss Seaverns' elder brother, George A. III., already is back in Lake Forest, having been discharged from the marines recently after service as a sergeant in the South Pacific. Mr. and Mrs. Seaverns and their daughter recently returned from a visit with friends in Lexington, Ky. The debutante attended St. Margaret's in Waterbury, Conn., and Fox Hollow in Lenox, Mass.

Miss Ruth Lee, youngest daughter of Mrs. Douglas P. Street, will have a winter debut party. She attends Vassar college.

Miss Margaret Macfarland and Miss Margaret Malott Loomis will share honors at a debut luncheon on Dec. 23 in the Indian Hill club. The debutantes, who are Pine Manor classmates, are daughters of Mrs. Edwin Keeler and Henry Macfarland, and of the John S. Loomises.

Calling All Clews

When a motorist stops to ask directions, do you, instinctively, want to help him? When a questioning face turns to you in a crowded store, do you answer quickly, wholeheartedly? If so, you have the primary qualification for a white collar job with the buyers' service of Chicago's classified telephone directory. You will be a round peg in a round hole—and love it!

The girls, under the direction of Barbara Dryden, answer about 150 telephone calls daily from befuddled, even frustrated buyers, who know what they want but don't know where to get it.

Each inquiry is a challenge. It may be from a woman who wants to know where to buy long underwear for her six foot husband! Or, it may be a request for 50,000 tons of real salt water, or an army plea for 50 skeletons. It may be some one who wants a secretarial service devoted to waking war workers in the small hours of the morning.

When GI Joe from overseas writes the bureau, he usually wants to know about a business that's going to figure in his post-war plans. Other letters from foreign firms ask for information on American products. Even children call the bureau with urgent requests for rabbits and white mice! Most beseeching is the weekly call from Bobby. He pipes up with the same question every time: "Please tell me where I can get a bicycle?" The girls insist that should they ever find one, Bobby will get priority for his persistence.

Crowd Hears Opera Tidbits at Grant Park

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

Grant park harbored one of the largest throngs of the season last night for a program of operatic samples from Donizetti to Puccini. Paul Breisach conducted the Grant Park Symphony orchestra, and the soloists were two Metropolitan opera juniors: Regina Resnik, soprano, and Thomas Hayward, a tenor under contract to that institution but with his stage spurs still to be won.

The program read like a record catalog, and it is probably those who are accustomed to getting their opera on four minute dises to whom such a concert largely appeals. It is well enough if you like your opera all hills and no valleys, but the strain of a succession of climatic episodes is a bit telling on both participants and auditors.

By and large the evening was one of competent rather than exciting music making. Mr. Breisach is a thoroly expert conductor. He knows exactly what to do to make such orchestral interludes of opera as the overtures to "The Merry Wives of Windsor" and "Mignon" and the Dance of the Hours from "La Gioconda" palatable concert fare. And his accompaniments give the singers the support they crave while not slighting the symphonic possibilities of the score. In consequence of his unmistakable beat and his firm authority, the orchestra played exceedingly well for him at all times.

Miss Resnik was heard at Grant Park earlier in the season and confirmed the impression of a fine singing talent and a brilliant voice of comprehensive possibilities. It is not yet an extraordinarily beautiful voice and her singing in general lacks the impress of strong individuality to give it character. But it has forcefulness and assurance for the moment, and its utilitarian qualities served her well in the wide ranging demands of "Tacea la notte placida" from "Il Trovatore," "Ritorna vincitor" from "Aida," "In quelle trine morbide" from "Manon Lescaut" and the Habanera from "Carmen." It was only the Puccini excerpt, however, that caught the poetry that lies at the heart of all music.

Mr. Hayward also left the impression of a good utility singer. His voice is smallish, yet it is of true tenor quality, well used, and he sings with taste and correctness without engendering much fire in the process. "Una furtiva lagrima" from "L'Elisir d'Amore" was a bit uneasy as an opening number often is, but "Che gelida manina" from "La Boheme" was confidence itself, including the high C, a merit that extended to Faust's aria in the garden scene—not Valentine's cavatina as the announcer misinformed the audience. Nor was there any particular fault to be found with the Flower Song from "Carmen," except that it didn't remind you of Muratore.

Speakers included the Rev. John F. Ryan of the Catholic clergy conference of the midwest on Negro welfare, and Dr. Taft C. Raines of the Federation of Colored Catholics. Mrs. Mattye Lee Lane was in charge of a musical program by 300 pupils of the mission school.

Ravinia's 10th Season Sets New Attendance Record as Monteux Ends Week of Triumph

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Pierre Monteux, conductor. Presented at Ravinia Sunday afternoon, Aug. 13, 1945. The program:
Overture to "The Sicilian Vespers" Verdi
March and Serenade from "Harold in Italy" ..... Berlioz
Symphonic Poem, "The Fountains of Rome" ..... Respighi
Symphony in D minor ..... Franck

Ravinia set another attendance record with its 10th season of Chicago Symphony orchestra concerts, but the best the management could find to say about that triumph was to remark that the figure was 6,626 short of perfection. It seems the trustees had their hearts set on a neat 100,000 to attend the 25 concerts, but what with rainy nights and other complications, only 93,374 arrived. This compared with 86,040 customers for last season's concerts, and suggests that guarantors will be seeing refunds thru a haze considerably more rosy than red.

If all's well that ends well, this was truly a festival season to remember. Pierre Monteux was its apex, and he was on hand yesterday afternoon for another of his monumental concerts. He stayed for Ravinia's party last night, to share in the Farewell and Toy symphonies and to play his viola with the Pro Arte Quartet. Perhaps the only disappointment in his day was that word of peace did not arrive to make his good-by a victory concert. He had planned to play all the allied national anthems, tho, to tell the full truth, he was a little perplexed about what to do for the Chinese.

But what he did for Ravinia was to give an overflowing audience another concert to treasure until he comes again, and that audience reciprocated with an ovation that drew a diagram, if any one remains who needs one, about its feeling in the matter. Audiences don't grow hysterical over Monteux—he isn't that kind of conductor. But they flock to his concerts, drink in the music like people who have found an oasis in a musical desert, and when he has finished, they just won't go home. They sit there, applauding with the kind of lasting admiration that long since deepened into affection.

There is a special radiance about his concerts because the clairvoyant simplicity of his style throws such light on music. The orchestra plays superbly for him because he is a great conductor, and I use the term in all it implies. When he conducts, nothing is between the listener and the composer but the communication of glowing performance. Yesterday we had the Italian opera flourish of Verdi's Overture to "The Sicilian Vespers," played in the richest Verdian style. We had Milton Preves' beautiful viola tone in the march and serenade from Berlioz's "Harold in Italy," subtle, gentle, touched in the latter half with wit. We had perfection in the delicate textures of Respighi's "The Fountains of Rome," and vaulting, gleaming brilliance in the Franck Symphony. And some of us weren't quite sure whether we were happy or sad, for while it was a typical Monteux concert, it also was his farewell. How about more next season, when Ravinia may extend to eight weeks?

Mr. Monteux goes next to Amsterdam for a month with the Concertgebouw orchestra before opening his home season in lucky San Francisco.

Van Druten's Next

John Van Druten, who adores quotations for titles, is calling his new play "The Mermaids Singing," from T. S. Eliot. He is now in New York to work with Alfred de Liagre Jr. on casting, and to get "The Voice of the Turtle" ready to reopen with Martha Scott playing opposite Elliott Nugent.

Thru the Looking Glass

One little beauty aid we're all inclined to undervalue is the refreshing lotion. These, as you may not know, come in varying strengths; you choose the one best suited to your type of skin—a mild one if the skin is dry, a stronger, more astringent type if it's oily. The lotions are used after removing facial cream, for two reasons. One is to do a better cleansing job, the other is to give the skin the benefit of a little safe stimulation.

The woman with dry skin will like one that's been on the market for years. It is as mild as milk but does have a refreshing quality that's more than welcome in hot weather. Keep it in the ice box, if convenient; your pleasure in using it will be tripled in this weather. Use it every time you use cream.

After you remove the cream go over the face and neck with a little pad of cotton which has been wrung out in the cold, fragrant lotion. This will remove every lingering trace of cream, thereby insuring a cleaner, better lasting makeup.

Then give yourself a little pickup treatment. Take a fresh pad of cotton, soak it well in the lotion, and give the face and the neck a good brisk, slapping treatment, just enough to make the skin tingle a bit and turn a little pink. This is one of the best of all beauty treatments for the skin that's dry and inclined to be dingy. It peps it up, and by such mild measures that it's not injured at all. You can't use strong astringents on skin like this, but there is no reason why you can't give it gentle "exercise" occasionally.

You'll find that wise use of a preparation like this helps combat the dinginess that's an additional bother to skin that lacks oil.

New College Fashion Trend Is Interesting

BY REA SEEGER

A mid-month roundup of college wardrobe data reveals interesting news on the fashion trend among co-eds. Take, for example, raincoats. This year there are two which are especially intriguing. One is the classic rough and ready number to ward off rain and rugged going across a weather swept campus. The second choice is a more dress parade model. It is copied after the dressmaker lines of a satin coat, complete to the high fashion wide sleeves and the slipping shoulder lines. It even has little bow ties at the wrists or at the snug round neckline.

With the first coat goes an enveloping, attached hood of the same rain-repellent stuff as the coat. With the dressmaker, or more feminine coats, go gayly colored umbrellas in either contrasting or in blending colors. Most college wardrobes will contain two raincoats.

New successes, either friend or foe at first sight, are the knickers seen these days. They are exact duplicates of the ones your little brother wears. You'll even wear them, if you do accept them, just like little brother does, buckled below the knees. You'll wear them with belts and with sweaters tucked in. If you don't like the knickers, there are short slacks for such campus activities as bicycle riding and hiking. These, too, are worn two to three inches below the knees, and with sweaters tucked in.

For dormitory hours, see the trick lounging ensembles. Pajamas of wooly warmth [altho the real wool content is nothing to brag about] are worn with considerably shorter lounging robes than have been seen in years.

Sleepers are in two classes. There are the long sacklike creations with long sleeves, certainly minus any optical glamor, and the slightly shocking and naughty extra long shirts, a 1945 version of the nightshirts of way back when. These reach a line just above the knees, have long sleeves, a high collar, and button down the front just like the regulation nightshirt. The materials are fleecy flannel.

Otherwise the college wardrobe collections are normal, with one piece dresses still making impressive records against the sloppier outfits. Short winter coats are going over big, and so are the coats with removable linings. The blazer versus sweater battle still has an unpredictable finish. There still is abundant loot around the shops but the buying crush is terrific. . . . Here, too, the early shopper gets the best choice.

'This Nettle Danger'

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1945: By William MacLeod Raine)

SYNOPSIS: In the feud between homesteaders and cattlemen Bruce Sherrill, leader of the homesteaders, is wounded. Bruce shot Ben Randall, son of old Jeff Randall, owner of the Diamond Tail ranch. Trapped, he rides to the ranch of Cliff Applegate, his chief enemy and brother-in-law of Jeff Randall. Linda Applegate hides him. When her father and brother return Linda learns Ben was shot in a fight—not ambushed. Because Bruce is wounded she insists he be given shelter until he is able to travel, then they may turn him over to the law. Cliff feels they are betrayers (their friends. Linda quarrels with Bruce when he accuses the cattlemen of trampling down the homesteaders, and in the night he slips away. When Linda and her father tell Jeff Randall what they have done Cliff and Jeff quarrel bitterly. Bruce contacts Finch is a spy for the cattlemen. Bruce, a former Rough Rider, makes a trip to Washington, lunches with the President, and obtains his promise to investigate the feud. On his return, while having dinner with the sheriff, Bruce's horse is shot. Ben Randall quarrels with his father and visits the Applegates. He suspects Linda has more than a humane interest in Bruce. Two government men arrive. While Bruce is rounding up his cattle Rod Randall orders him off the Randall property. A shot misses Bruce. He is anxious to find out who tried to kill him.

INSTALMENT XIX.

MORE SHOOTING

The sound of a rider moving up to the ledge reached Bruce's ears. Presently a cowpony clambered into sight. The man in the saddle was Wally Jelks. He swung his mount in the direction of Bruce and pulled up abruptly. A rifle jumped to his shoulder and the roar of the gun crashed along the ridge. The sound of Sherrill's gun was close enough to have been the echo of the first shot.

Jelks snatched at the reins. The sleeve of his shirt showed a growing patch of crimson.

"Get down!" Bruce said sharply.

The cowboy swung from the saddle. "You've busted my arm," he complained angrily.

"Sit down by that tree," Bruce told him.

The man sat down, still holding his arm. "All the blood in my body is drainin' out," he yelped.

The Pitchfork rider watched Bruce draw the revolver from his holster and toss it into the brush before he made and set the tourniquet to stop the bleeding. The amateur surgeon was still at work when another rider came along the ridge. Bruce looked up, to see Rod Randall swinging from his horse.

"He shot me," Jelks whined.

Rod looked down at the wounded man contemptuously. "You yellow belly!" he had seen the first shots fired and could guess the rest of the story.

"I got to have a doctor quick," Jelks pleaded.

Bruce stood up, his job finished. He spoke to Randall, his eyes stern and hostile. "Take the assassin. He's yours."

Dark blod poured into the cheeks of the Diamond Tail man.

"No more mine than yours," he flung back. "I don't deal with bushwhackers. I can kill my own snakes—in the open."

Bruce thought of Quint Milroy. Rod might not be responsible for the man, but he was backing his father's campaign, and the chances were great that some day soon the old man would send the killer out on a murder mission.

"You're easily satisfied," Bruce said, contempt in the sneer. "Take him or leave him. It's all one to me."

He turned away to walk back to his horse.

"Wait a minute," Randall called.

Bruce stopped.

"Get this, fellow," Randall said. "You shot him, and you're not going to shift him on me."

Jelks begged them not to go away and desert him. If left alone, the man would probably die, Bruce thought. To reach the Pitchfork he would have to travel a rough trail for more than 15 miles. The Diamond Tail was even farther. Reluctantly Bruce admitted to himself the wounded puncher ought to be taken to his ranch.

"Looks bad for your friend," he said callously, adding as if by an afterthought, "unless you'll throw in for once with a nester and help save the scoundrel."

"How?" demanded Randall.

"Help me get him to my ranch, and then send one of your riders for a doctor."

Rod didn't like any part of this. But he had to admit that Sherrill was going more than half way in offering to take in the man who had his own standards.

"Let's go," he said harshly.

They helped the wounded man to his saddle and rode with him between them.

Ramrod came from the house to meet them, amazed at what he saw.

"You've read about the wolf and the lamb dwelling together," Bruce said with a satiric smile. "Here you have it."

"And smoking guns in our hands," Randall added.

Rod stayed until after the wounded man had been put to bed. Bruce came out to the porch. "I hope you won't forget to send for Dr. Bradley."

"I won't forget. When you know me better you'll find out I don't forget my promises."

"That's too bad. Sometimes a hasty promise gets a man into trouble."

"Or a hasty shot." Randall's white teeth showed in a smile that held no friendliness. "Afraid you've got yourself into a jam, Mr. Sherrill. These government men are guests at our ranch for a few days. It will break my heart to have to unload this story to them."

"I'm sure it will," Bruce agreed. "You intend to edit the facts, I gather."

"Slightly. I got on the scene just in time to see you drop Jelks while he wasn't looking, and I had to throw a gun on you to keep you from killing him. Then I made you bring him down here. Too bad, but we cattlemen can't afford to let wrong impressions get out just now."

"You don't mind hitting below the belt then," Bruce suggested.

"Not in a free for all fight with nesters ruining the country."

Bruce called to Ramrod and asked him to bring out to the porch his rifle and that of Jelks.

"Do you need rifles—right now?" Randall asked.

"For evidence." Bruce turned to Ramrod. "Examine both guns and tell us how many shots have been fired from each."

Ramrod reported. "Three from Wally's gun, one from yours, if the magazines were loaded to start with."

"If is a big little word," Randall sneered. "How are you going to prove Jelks' rifle was full up?"

He walked to his horse and swung to the saddle. "I'll send Doc Bradley," he said. "Don't throw any more slugs in poor Wally before he gets here."

Ben had wandered down to the corral, had gathered the eggs for Linda from the barn, and was now lying on a stave hammock on the porch.

Linda brought him out a glass of milk with an egg beaten in it. "Drink that," she ordered.

"There's a guy riding up the road," he said. "Funny how many punchers come to ask you have you seen a stray buckskin pony with white stockings on the front legs, and seeing as I'm here, Miss Lindy, how about saving me a quadrille at the dance Friday night?"

She looked down the road at the approaching rider. "The trouble with this country is that there aren't enough girls in it. There are so few of us that every goose looks like a swan to them."

"How right you are about the first part of what you said."

Rod swung from the saddle and dropped the reins.

"What is the matter with the people of Chicago that they don't know how to can fruit without sugar?" writes a Chicagoan. "I have been canning fruits for 40 years without sugar. My husband used to run a bakery and I canned fruit for his pies and never used sugar."

The skimpy allotments of canning sugar which we are able to get do not begin to fill the needs of most families where home canning is done, so why shouldn't we be sensible and can the fruit anyway? It's easily done by using boiling water instead of boiling sirup and processing the fruit as usual in the boiling water bath.

Fruit canned without sugar usually doesn't have quite the color and flavor of fruit canned in sirup. Research has shown that ascorbic acid tablets added to the fruit when it is canned [one to a jar] help hold flavor and prevent that discoloration at the top of the jar which is such a problem to some home canners. Ascorbic acid is the proper name of vitamin C and, of course, there's the added food value in this procedure, too. The tablets are available at drug stores.

Modern packaging and air transportation are going to give us far better quality and freshness in fruits and vegetables. Those "in the know" say we'll get garden fresh peas, shelled and sealed air-tight, by air express, and other vegetables in prime condition, completely ready for the sauce pan. We have had samples of air carried fresh spinach which arrived crisp, clean, and ready for the kettle at our markets and it will be a happy day when other fresh produce arrives in the same condition year around.

Peaches continue to be the biggest fruit item in the markets. While they're with us let's make good use of them. Sliced peaches on the breakfast cereal, peaches and cream for dessert, an occasional cobbler when sugar permits. Best of all is eating them "out of hand" like apples. If the fruit is washed and dried the fuzziness of skin is not at all objectionable. There's plenty of time this month and next to can peaches, as the season is a long one this year. The crop started to market from southern and southwestern states early this year and now is being augmented by midwestern peaches which usually last until well into September. There's no time like the present to can, tho, as supplies and prices may not be so attractive later on.

Tomatoes soon will be ready for canning. They're the only vegetable which may safely be canned in the boiling water bath. They're easy to can and, what's more, require none of our precious and scant supplies of sugar. Home canned tomatoes, tomato juice, catsups, chili sauces, and tomato relishes are going to pay for themselves many times over in next winter's menus.

How Wives Lose Husbands . . .

JOAN DIDN'T REALIZE it was her fault when Stan started paying attention to other women. But her doctor told her how wives risk married happiness by careless, "now-and-then" feminine hygiene methods. He advised using Lysol disinfectant for douching—always. Cleanses thoroughly. Deodorizes. A proved germ-killer—far more dependable than salt, soda, or other homemade solutions. Yet so gentle for douching, it won't harm sensitive vaginal tissues—just follow directions. More women use Lysol for feminine hygiene than any other method. Try it.

ALL-STARS TO OPEN DOUBLE PRACTICE TODAY

CUBS DEFEAT PHILS, 4-3 AND 12-6; SOX, A'S DIVIDE

CAVARRETTA IS INJURED; LEAD BY 6½ GAMES

Base Runner Jolts Star from Lineup

BY EDWARD BURNS
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 12—The Cubs today celebrated their return to Shibe park, the shrine where they went into first place by winning a double header on July 8, by beating the Phillies for the 14th and 15th times. Paul Erickson, relieved by Hank Borowy with one out and one on in the ninth inning, won the first game, 4 to 3, his seventh success. In the second game Hank Wyse leisurely presided at a 12 to 6 triumph, his 18th of the season.

Phil Cavarretta

Chicago now leads St. Louis by 6½ games and Brooklyn by 7½ games in the pennant race, gaining a game on each as the Cardinals and Dodgers split a double header yesterday.

The first game cost the Cubs the services of their captain, Phil Cavarretta.

Cavarretta Is Injured

After singling to drive in a run in the first inning and tripling in the third as a prelude to a run, Cavarretta was injured in an unusual play in the home third. Fred Daniels led off with a strikeout, but the third strike got away from Paul Gillespie. Daniels and Cavarretta collided at first.

The game was suspended, but Cavarretta stayed in long enough to send Lowrey from first to third with what proved to be the winning run. Phil then gave up and was taken to Jefferson hospital, where it was said he had suffered a badly bruised right shoulder and would be out for several days. The second game was the first missed by Phil this season.

Busy Becker Given Rest

Heinz Becker replaced Cavarretta and in the second game knocked a double and two singles and scored three runs. Then he was so tired he had to be replaced on first by Stan Hack. Trainer Andy Lotshaw expects to revive him for tomorrow's single game, however.

Pitcher Hugh Mulcahy, first major leaguer to volunteer for military service, was welcomed back to the Phillies in ceremonies before the games and during the intermission.

First Philly Hit in Fifth.

Hack and Johnson wasted singles in the second inning but there was production in the third. Cavarretta knocked a triple off the right field fence after Erickson had fanned, and scored while Mott was throwing out Pafko.

Lowrey opened the fifth with his second single and went to third while Mauney was throwing out Cavarretta. Cavarretta retired as a result of his collision in the third inning, then Pafko filed to Wasdell, Lowrey scoring.

Dinges drew Erickson's first pass at the start of the fifth. Di Maggio and Seminick then fanned, after Daniels singled to right for the first Philly hit. Mauney walked, loading the bases. Mott singled to center, Dinges and Daniels scoring.

BY ARCH WARD

COLUMBUS, O., baseball fans are moaning that the St. Louis Cardinals are robbing the Red Birds of all their best talent. . . . In recent weeks, the world champions have called up Shortstop Floyd [Pep] Young and Outfielder Art Rebel, leading run-batter-in of the American association. . . . Incidentally, association pitchers have turned in 57 scoreless games to date. . . . The Indianapolis staff is far ahead with 16. . . . St. Paul and Milwaukee are tied for second with eight apiece. . . . Elwood Cooke, the tennis star discharged from the navy a few months ago, finally has completed reading the Harvard Classics. . . . He says the task required two hours a night for two years. . . . The Iowa Seahawks lost their two basketball coaches of the last two seasons recently with the detachment of Lt. O. M. Nordly and Lt. Charles W. Harris for other duty, but they gained another college instructor—Lt. [j. g.] Robert Alexander Clark, who reported at about the same time. . . . A native of Turkey, Tex., Clark played A. A. U. basketball for an Ogden, Utah, five before taking over Oberlin college. . . . One of the strictest rules in American Legion junior baseball tournament play is the one governing substitutions. . . . When a team from Baton Rouge, La., tried to make two substitutions, one for a boy who had suffered a broken leg before the game, and the other for a player who had been injured traveling to the site, the changes were forbidden. . . . The national headquarters ruled substitutions may be made only "in case of death." . . . Bernard Docusen, the Filipino boxer who rolled up an impressive victory string in New Orleans rings, has been accepted by the army. . . .

Says Ted McGrew, the Philly scout: "The greatest hitter baseball has seen is Paul Waner. . . . He hit line drives every time for 21 years; hit every ball right on the nose. . . . Babe Ruth unquestionably had the greatest power and the game has seen many fine and smart batters, but, day in and day out, over a long major league career, Paul Waner gets my vote." . . . McGrew was a big league player and umpire before turning scout. . . . Holman Williams and Louis [Kid] Cocoa, middleweights, are engaged in a ring series which may rival in time the famous old Ted Lewis-Jack Britton, string. . . . They have met 19 times and Kid Cocoa leads by one victory, 9 to 8. . . . Two of their bouts ended in draws. . . . Williams owns a half interest in a flourishing south side tavern. . . . Lt. Ben Franklin Grady, former national intercollegiate diving champion at the University of Michigan, has left Georgia Pre-Flight school, where he was swimming instructor, for the naval air station at Memphis, Tenn. . . . Lt. Grady was swimming coach at the University of Pittsburgh and athletic director at a Toledo club before entering the navy. . . . Charley Root, 46 year old pitcher-manager of the Columbus Red Birds, has turned in three shutouts this season, his most recent being a 5 to 0, three hit job against St. Paul. . . . Willie Davis, heavyweight wrestler, holds a bachelor of science degree from Virginia Polytechnic, where he studied, of all things, animal husbandry.

Jazbo's Journal

Speaking of a recent robbery in a downtown Chicago police station, Mayor Kelly observed, "It's no laughing matter." Why not, Ed? We'd scream if we saw it in the movies, wouldn't we? At least we used to when I was a kid. And no cracks, please.

I see where a Chicago judge has prevailed upon an 80 year old husband to return to his 76 year old wife to see if they can make a go of it. Like I say, what's getting into the kids these days, war hysteria or something?

O, Come You Back to Brandon

The moonlight mottled Brandon bay
the night you went away,
The surging surf sonorously swept up the silent shore,
A million star gems glittered and the summer night seemed gay,
But there was sorrow in my heart
because you came no more.

For years the slopes of Brandon hill
resounded with your song,
Within its clefts and crevices sweet
echoes still awake,
But now that you are gone from me the nights are lone and long
And when I hear the sea voice call I feel my heart must break.

It may be you will come again to sing
beside my door,
It may be we will stroll at eve across the lavish lawn,
But now the clouds are gathering, and
O, my heart is sore,
And there is sorrow in the wind that whispers you are gone.

O, come you back to Brandon when the spring begins to stir,
When the first feeble sprouts of green are breaking thru the loam,
When the wild wings of fledgling fowl across the meadows whir
O, come you back to Brandon to your people and your home.

SOUTH SIDERS SHUT OUT, 7-0; WIN SECOND, 5-3

Flores Yields 4 Hits in Opener

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The temperamental White Sox, having carried on more or less successfully against the league's high society, refused to become unduly aroused yesterday about the eighth place Philadelphia Athletics, getting only an even break that shattered a heretofore perfect 1945 Sunday record at home. The James Dykes boys were practically impotent in the first game, taking their beating by 7 to 0 after 16 straight successful Sabbath matches but they did bestir themselves later and pleased 19,442 spectators with a 5 to 3 success in the other half of a double header.

The seemingly disinterested attitude of the Sox in the first game might have been due to the deceptive fashion in which Jesse Flores threw the baseball. They troubled him with nothing worse than four scattered hits and while this was going on, the Athletics were almost violent in their treatment of Ed Lopat, scoring on him in the first inning and being still at it in the ninth. The happenings in between included a homer by Buddy Rosar. Only one of the victors' 11 hits failed to figure in the scoring.

No. 6 for Humphries

The second game saw Johnny Humphries making a little more progress in his slow advance on a 50-50 record for the season. Altho hit hard, especially in the early innings, he attained his sixth victory against eight defeats, getting his biggest lift in the fourth inning when he helped bat in a batch of three runs and finish off Don Black, the A's starting pitcher. Black's successor, Luther Knerr, also made a hasty departure but at least he was around long enough to yield the Sox their fifth run.

Lopat opened the first game with a pass to Irvin Hall and it didn't take the Athletics long to convert this into a run. Hall was bunted to second by Hal Peck and with two out was driven across the plate by Bill McGhee's single. It went from 1 to 0 to 2 to 0 in the next inning because of Rosar's home run that drifted into the left field seating space. The visitors continued to get maximum production on their hits in the third when Peck and George Kell singled and the former scored on McGhee's fly.

Score on Double Steal

The Mack boys served up something slightly different in the sixth. Kell was on third and Dick Seibert on second, both having singled. All of a sudden Kell skipped over the plate on the scoring end of a double steal, making it 4 to 0. The two run eighth opened with a pass to Peck and Kell's third single. The former scored on McGhee's fly and the latter on Rosar's fly after Siebert had singled. The last run followed a double by Hall with two out in the ninth. Peck then walked and Kell singled for the fourth time, Hall scoring.

The Sox came thru with only one hit in scoring their first run in the

MICHIGAN STATE CAPTURES A. A. U. SWIM CROWN

Akron, O., Aug. 12 (AP)—Michigan State college won the closing event today to take the 1945 men's national A. A. U. swimming team championship as Keo Nakama of Ohio State, Jimmy McLane of Akron, and Dave Seibold of the Spartans won individual honors as the meet's double winners.

Michigan State, deadlocked with Great Lakes naval training station at the end of the first two days of competition, finished with 26 points to 23 for Great Lakes.

Nakama failed in his bid for a second straight triple crown when he was defeated by 14 year old McLane in the 800 meter free style.

Nakama Scores 18 Points

Nakama also got a second in the 300 meter to be the meet's high individual scorer with 13 points. The Buckeyes finished third in the team standing.

The start of the 300 meter individual medley found Michigan State out in front by three points but needing a victory to clinch the team crown.

Seibold took a comfortable lead in the breast stroke but Gastineau and Bob White of Great Lakes rallied and were only a few feet behind as they headed into the free style heat. Gastineau continued to pull up and overhauled Seibold only about 40 meters from the goal.

Cook County Golf Tourney Opens Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Hymie Judelson of Old Orchard will defend his title in the 29th annual Cook County Men's tournament, which dominates a crowded week of activity in the Chicago district. The event will open today with the first side of a double session of qualifying play in Columbus park, 5800 W. Jackson blvd. Entrants may qualify either today or tomorrow for the match play brackets opening Wednesday and continuing thru Saturday's championship match.

Judelson last summer accomplished what he had been trying to do for 17 years. He was runner-up in the 1927 and 1928 tournaments, and came back last year to win from Harry Wils of Waveland, 2 and 1. The tournament this week will enlist a majority of the talent which swung in last week's city amateur in Jackson park, wherein Judelson went to the quarter-finals before losing a 1 up battle with Larry Kraay, eventually runner-up to Chick Evans.

Also on today's program will be the annual pro-ladies' tournament at Glen Oak, involving members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America and the Chicago Women's District Golf association. Last year, the title was won by Ralph Guldahl, now stationed at Medinah, and Mrs. Lillian Zech Krauss. This is the first of two consecutive Monday team events for the professionals, who next week will join up with their bosses in the annual pro-presidents' tourney at Sunset Ridge.

RESUME PLAY IN PUBLIC PARKS NET TOURNEY

Play was resumed in the Chicago public parks tennis tourney yesterday after being rained out last weekend. The finals will be played at Waveland park next Sunday.

At Gompers park in the men's singles quarter finals yesterday, Joe Weiss defeated Emil Jansen, 6-2, 7-9, 6-8; Jay Woldenberg won from Joe Lethy, 6-4, 7-5, and Jake Greenberg defeated Don Robertson, 4-6, 6-0, 6-4.

Bill Richter defeated Seymour Jacob, 6-0, 6-2, and Jerry Ravin won from Bob Livingstone, 8-6, 4-6, 6-1, in the semi-finals in Lincoln park.

OAK PARK TEAM BEATS TOPEKA IN LEGION TOURNEY

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 12 (AP)—Little Rock and Oak Park, Ill., scored first round victories today in the regional American Legion junior baseball tournament here.

The Little Rock club defeated the St. Louis Stockhams, 9 to 2, and Oak Park defeated Topeka, 3 to 2, in 10 innings.

Little Rock meets Oak Park at 5 p. m. tomorrow and the two losers, St. Louis and Topeka, will meet at 1:30 p. m. with the loser being eliminated from the tournament.

BIERMAN GIVES SQUAD OUTLINE OF DRILL PLANS

Issues Plays to Use Against Packers

BY WILFRID SMITH

[Packer camp news on next page]

The College All-Star football players will practice twice today as they begin intensive drills for their game Aug. 30 in Soldiers' field with the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National league. This was the first announcement yesterday by Bernie Bierman, head coach, as the Minnesotan took charge of his second All-Star squad. Players will drill in light clothes in the morning, Bierman told his men, and will don regulation football suits for the afternoon workout.

Today's program, following as it does yesterday's squad meeting in the morning and a conditioning drill in the afternoon, indicates clearly that Bierman and his associates will countenance no delay in the training schedule. At the morning meeting, Bierman diagrammed several plays the All-Stars will use against the Packers. He preceded this portion of his lecture with instructions on general conditioning and rules for conduct.

He's Stickler for Detail

In his years as head of Minnesota's football staff, Bierman has gained reputation as a stickler for detail in execution of fundamentals. In 1936, when he directed the college squad which tied the Detroit Lions, 7 to 7, the All-Stars completed a training program as rugged as any ever given a football squad. That preparation produced the All-Star's first touchdown in the series, the 1934 game with the Bears having ended in a scoreless tie, while the Bears won in 1935, 5 to 0.

Three of Bierman's assistants were on hand yesterday. They were Ray Eliot, Illinois; Howie Odell, Yale, and Jim Lookabaugh, Oklahoma A. & M. Jeff Cravath of Southern California, whose 1946 Trojan team earned the Pacific Coast conference championship and won the Rose bowl game from Tennessee, will join the staff today. Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern university's head coach, who headed the 1946 all-star staff, also will assist.

Civilians Report First

Members of the all-star squad had been given no definite hour to report yesterday at Dyche stadium, where the players are quartered. Twenty-four were present, however, for the first meeting and several more had checked in by time luncheon was served in the North Shore hotel. With few exceptions, the early arrivals were civilians. The initial group follows:

Jack Dugger, Ohio State; Sam Gray, Tulsa, and Merle Gibson, Texas Christian, ends; Clyde Flowers, Texas Christian; Bob Zimny, Indiana; Ralph Foster, Oklahoma A. & M., and Monte Moncrief, Texas A. & M., tackles; Ellis Jones and Carl Buda, Tulsa; J. C. Colhouer, Oklahoma A. & M.; Stanley Mohrbacher, Iowa; Damon Tassos, Texas A. & M.; Steve Enich, Marquette, and J. C. Coffee, Indiana, guards; Martin Silovich, Marquette, and Jack Tavener, Indiana, centers; Les Horvath, Ohio State, and Cecil Hankins, Oklahoma A. & M., quarter backs; Walter Schlinkman, Texas Tech; Joe Renfroe, Tulane; Robert Long, Tennessee, and Edmond Shedlosky and Charles Mitchell, Tulsa, half backs; Bernard Singer, Arizona, full back.

Test Renfroe's Kicking

The work yesterday afternoon consisted of fundamental conditioning exercises, passing, and kicking. Renfroe, on the basis of his reputation as one of the best kickers in collegiate football, immediately received attention of the staff. Renfroe played four years for Tulane and many times his kicks were phenomenal in distance as well as accurately placed. Johnny Strzykalski of Marquette, who had an average of more than 42 yards for kicks in 1942, his only year of collegiate football, is another on whom the All-Stars will depend in the battle with the Packers.

The game Aug. 30 probably will be seen by a capacity crowd of approximately 90,000. Seats still are available in the $2.40 and $1.20 sections. These may be purchased in The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st., and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. Mail orders should be sent to All-Star Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower.

TUG WILSON SEES ALL-STARS FROM A NEW ANGLE

Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, who as director of athletics at Northwestern was closely associated with the All-Stars and their use of university facilities in past contests, was back on the scene yesterday as the collegians started drills for their game Aug. 30 with the Green Bay Packers, world professional champions, but in a different role. Since the last All-Star contest Wilson resigned as director at Northwestern to become commissioner of the Western conference.

With Wilson yesterday was his successor as Northwestern athletic director, Ted Payseur, who likewise showed great interest in the All-Star practice. The third member of the party was Jay Wyatt, who as a Big Nine football official had many chances to watch several of the All-Stars in action during their college competition.

Ralph Foster, 225 pound tackle and captain of Oklahoma A. and M.'s eleven last fall, is among the navy dischargees on the All-Star roster. Foster, 28 years old, received his medical survey from naval service in October, 1943, after serving a year as gunnery officer aboard a patrol vessel based at Noumea, New Caledonia. Foster joined the naval reserve shortly after Pearl Harbor as an ensign.

Observers noted a bit of slowness in Billy Andrews' dashes down the gridiron with water bottles when time was called during practice. Andrews, 22 years old and spending his fourth year as manager of the All-Stars, is carrying 10 extra pounds this season, hitting the beam at 155 pounds. He hasn't grown in height, however. He's still 4 feet 11 inches tall.

Amateur meteorologists in the All-Star camp at Dyche stadium last night began their work of peering into the future for weather conditions that might prevail on the night of Aug. 30.

Their first act was to visit the quarters of Bernie Bierman, head coach, and peek around the Gopher football director's traveling bags for foul weather gear. Nine years ago when Bierman first directed the All-Stars the weather man kept his hand on the rain lever almost constantly during the training period and also caused the only postponement in All-Star history.

Bierman's rain togs were left in Minneapolis, the meteorologists learned and yesterday's bright sunshine for the first All-Star workout gave them additional evidence Bierman's luck has changed and ideal conditions will continue during the training sessions and the night of the contest.

All-Star Assistant Coach Ray Eliot of Illinois spied a young giant sauntering underneath the Dyche stadium stands yesterday and remarked: "That guy, whoever he is, should give Green Bay a lot of trouble."

A bystander cracked back: "You're wrong, coach, that chap won't give Green Bay any trouble, but he'll give you a headache this fall. He's Jerry Vick, Northwestern freshman end." Vick is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 225 pounds.

One Hit and Three Runs

The Cubs made only one hit in the first inning of the second game, as contrasted with the triple, double, and two singles by the first four batsmen in the first game, but they made three runs, nevertheless. Hack was safe on Daniels' fumble and Johnson walked. Lowrey then tripled to right, scoring Stan and Don. Lowrey scored while Daniels was throwing out Becker.

Wasdell opened the home second with a single to left. Dinges lined to Pafko, but Di Maggio doubled off the left field wall, scoring Wasdell, and scored himself on a single by Spindel.

The Cubs added their fourth and fifth runs after two were out in the third inning. Becker doubled to left center and went on to third on Triplett's poor return. Pafko scored him with a single to center. Nicholson singled to right, putting Pafko on third, and Rice singled to center, scoring Pafko.

Dinges tripled with one out in the third and scored while Di Maggio was beating out a hit to Merullo.

Becker Starts Rally

The Cubs added five hits for three runs in the eighth and the Phillies made a pair in their half of the eighth.

CHICAGO READY TO ABSORB WAR TO PEACE SHIFT

Position Fortunate; Impact Less

BY THOMAS FURLONG

Chicago is better situated to absorb the impact of sudden cancellation of war contracts than any other major industrial center in the United States.

In virtually every survey that has been made of post-war prospects Chicago has been rated among the fortunately situated industrial sections. The area is singularly well adapted to effect rapid and relatively painless demobilization because of its highly diversified trade and manufacturing activity. Its manufacturing ranges from hair pins to railway locomotives and includes many large industries which will expand when released from war tasks.

The most severe readjustments in the demobilization period will occur in such areas as the Pacific northwest, Southern California, and the gulf coast where the war time expansion in manufacturing activity has been out of all proportion to peace time standards, according to various surveys.

Population Remains Stable

Big population increases have occurred in war boom areas while Chicago's population has remained stable. Many smaller cities like Wichita, Kas., and Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., in which big war factories are located, have experienced a growth that promises to lead to quick contraction with the end of war production.

Altho more than a billion dollars has been invested by the government in special war facilities in Chicago this has not brought about a major industrial distortion in the community. Furthermore, the big war-constructed factories in Chicago are considered less likely to fall into disuse with the return of peace than in some other centers. Plans already are afoot for converting some of Chicago's new war factories into producers of civilian goods.

Percentage Growth Small

The huge amount invested in new plant facilities in Chicago suggests that the city has experienced a tremendous industrial growth with the war. Actually, however, the city ranked 57th among industrial centers a year ago in the percentage increase in manufacturing employment since the start of the war.

The new factory workers in Chicago were recruited in important degree from civilian trade and service industries whose operations were curtailed by war conditions. Women not normally employed also helped fill the gap. With cessation of war production many workers will shift back to normal activities.

Chicago's largest employers—the food, steel, and railroad industries—have a relatively simple reconversion job. Food and meat packing are expected to continue to operate at high levels.

The period of demobilization will be a busy one for the railroads and their equipment suppliers. Extensive replacement of existing rail equipment is imperative. It is only a matter of a few days for the steel mills to shift to civilian manufacture. Many of their war and peace products are the same.

Home Goods Center

Chicago is the center of manufacturing for many of the household durable goods for which a tremendous pent-up demand has been created during the war years. These manufacturers and others are straining every facility to get back into civilian operation as needed materials and men become available.

Altho war production has put the emphasis on Chicago's vast industrial capacity the city ranks second only to New York as a trade and distribution center.

Normally about one-third of Chicago's labor force is employed in manufacturing and 23 per cent in trade. By contrast 47 per cent of Detroit's workers are employed in manufacturing. The number of women employed in manufacturing in Chicago has more than doubled since 1940 and is now well above 300,000. As demobilization proceeds many of these women are expected to withdraw from the labor market.

AFFECTS 300 PLANTS

Final victory over Japan will mean the immediate end of production in more than 300 Chicago war plants holding direct contracts with the Chicago Ordnance district, Col. John Slezak, commanding officer of the district, said yesterday. In addition, about half of the district's 13,000 subcontractors in Chicago will be affected, he said.

Col. Slezak declined to minimize the difficulties of reconversion in industries which have been concerned primarily with the production of direct war needs.

The contract termination organization within the Chicago Ordnance district will be able to complete negotiation of cases within three to five months, he said.

Plastics Field Growth Opens Jobs for Vets

At the completion of this series on opportunities for veterans the entire series will be reprinted in booklet form. Copies may be obtained some time after publication by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Veterans' Bureau of the Chicago Tribune Public Service office, 1 S. Dearborn st., or Tribune Tower.

BY ANTHONY WIRRY

Its development accelerated to fill war time needs, the relatively young but growing plastics industry promises attractive employment opportunities for veterans.

An optimistic view of the industry's future is taken by a statistical firm which analyzes industries for investment purposes, and by the industry itself, whose growth has been achieved largely in 15 years.

"Having already established themselves as important industrial materials, plastics are expected to extend their rapid growth and to become increasingly important outlets to the leading chemical companies even tho it will be difficult to maintain the wide profit margins prevailing during the war boom," the firm said. "Most producers of plastic resins expect to expand their facilities substantially."

Plan 25 Per Cent More Jobs

The manufacturers told the war man power commission they will need to increase employment 25 per cent to clear the backlog of demand accumulated during the war. This is expected to take two or three years and provide time to develop new formulas, products, and uses.

Employed in many types of building and all major manufacturing except heavy machinery, plastics are specified for numerous parts in tanks, guns, airplanes, military vehicles, rifles, and other war equipment such as gas masks. They also are substituted for zinc, aluminum, steel, and rubber in many essentials.

Many of these substitutions may be permanent, it was said. Altho some were made because metals were scarce, many others were being made because the plastic products had qualities definitely superior to those they replaced.

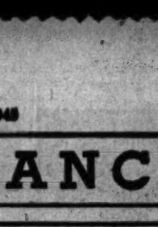
Adaptable, Light, Attractive

Plastics are more adaptable to desired specific qualities of strength, machinability, and color. They often are lighter in weight and more attractive than their metal counterparts and have unusually good insulating properties. Plastics are not subject to rust and do not need resurfacing or repainting because the color is part of the object.

The broad use plastics already have been put to indicates the vast possibilities of the future. New ones are constantly being developed.

Plastic products are manufactured principally in Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, and California.

People and Events



Howard H. Wanzer

Howard H. Wanzer, president and son of the founder of Sidney Wanzer & Sons, Chicago dairy, will celebrate his 77th birthday anniversary today. He has been with the dairy for 65 years. He began delivering milk to neighbors when he was 12 years old, became a partner in the firm some years later, and in 1932 was elected president.

V. T. Mertz, Ruth F. Farquhar, H. E. Merillet, and H. D. McNaughton announced their resignation from the H. W. Kastor & Sons Advertising company. They said they plan to remain together in business.

Frank R. Keefer has become associated with the new business department of the American National Bank and Trust company, Lawrence F. Stern, president, announced. Keefer formerly was with C. I. T. and other financing companies.

Thomas B. Conlon has resigned as vice president of the Conlon corporation, Cicero, manufacturer of home laundry equipment. He plans his own manufacturing and merchandising organization.

EXCHANGES FIX NO DEFINITE V-J PLAN IN ADVANCE

Most securities and commodity exchanges have announced no definite plans with regard to closing or remaining open when peace is proclaimed. The New York Stock exchange said it would close for V-J day if it were made a legal holiday, a position that coincided with that of the Chicago Stock exchange. Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade will hold a special meeting immediately on announcement of peace to decide a course of action. Doubt was expressed that the mart would close if today were V-J day because of a heavy cash grain movement, particularly oats. The Chicago Stock Yards was expected to remain open to handle all live stock shipments.

BIG RAIL TRAFFIC LOAD EXPECTED TO DROP LITTLE

Victory over Japan is not expected to cause an immediate decrease in freight and passenger traffic on the western railroads, C. E. Johnston, chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives, said yesterday.

He said passenger travel will not ease until about the close of the year. Even before all men are returned from Europe it is expected troops will be returning from the Pacific. Also, war workers will be going home or to new jobs.

Altho there will be important shifts in the character of freight traffic, it is expected the total load will be substantial thru 1945.

Butter Surplus, Spoilage Reports Denied by U. S.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12 (AP)—Tom G. Stitts, chief of the dairy and poultry branch of the department of agriculture, said today that, "contrary to widely circulated reports, there is no surplus of butter at the present time." He also asserted in a broadcast that there is no widespread butter spoilage.

INFLATION HELD SURE IF MANY ASK BOND CASH

Paton Assails U. S. Borrowing Policy

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 12 [Special]—If the nation is to avoid ruinous inflation the millions of Americans who own war bonds should hold them indefinitely, Dr. William A. Paton, professor of accounting at the University of Michigan, asserted today. He said bondholders must be content to collect interest and buy new bonds when old ones mature.

Paton criticized the government policy of borrowing to raise funds instead of levying heavier taxes. He believes the national debt cannot be reduced substantially in the next two or three decades.

Arresting Debt Suggested

"Our aim should be to arrest the growth of the debt in the near future and then carry the interest charges, without attempting any considerable reduction," he said. "At the best I do not see how we can expect to retire more than 1 or 2 billion dollars a year."

Paton said the national debt is more than 260 billion dollars and by the end of the current fiscal year will approximate 300 billions, or more than $10,000 per family.

Should the average family attempt to redeem bonds amounting to $1,000 in the first year after V-J day a total demand for 25 billion dollars would confront the treasury. The immediate post-war budget is estimated at 20 to 25 billions, including bond interest but with no provision for debt retirement.

Repudiation a Possibility

Where then, Paton asked, is the government going to get the extra 25 billions to redeem an avalanche of war bonds?

"The debt might be repudiated indirectly or directly," he commented. "The government might start the printing presses rolling out, say, 25 billion dollars a year in paper money, but this would be financial suicide. Or the government might formally repudiate the bonds by levying a 100 per cent capital tax on bond holdings. However, effort should and will be made to avoid such a ruinous course."

Every effort should be made to maintain interest at the present low level so the burden on the national budget will be bearable, he said.

ASSOCIATED GAS

How much were Associated Gas and Electric system earnings last year as applied to the stock of the proposed reorganized company? What is the status of the reorganization?—K. U.

Consolidated net income as shown in the pro forma statement for 1944 was $10,396,000, or $1.38 a share on the proposed issue of 7,500,000 shares of the surviving company, compared with $1.32 in 1943. Of these earnings 29 cents a share in 1944 and 31 cents in 1943 were restricted by orders of regulatory commissions from being distributed as dividends by certain subsidiaries.

The surviving company will be required to use about $1,800,000 cash annually for debt retirement. This must come either from income or from sale of assets. Ultimate realization from sale of investments is expected by the trustees to exceed debt obligations.

The reorganization plan has been confirmed by the federal District court. It is possible that its consummation will be delayed as a result of a petition to the Supreme court for review, filed by nonparticipating holders.

Under the plan Associated Gas and Electric company debenture holders would receive new stock for their claims. The debenture 5s, 1950, for example, would get 2.57 shares for each $100 of principal and all interest rights.

ROUND OR FLAT

If it is true that small circulations are as profitable to the advertiser as large circulations, then it is also true that the earth is not round, but flat.

One contention is just as rational, or just as irrational, as the other.

Great circulation is still the greatest investment for the advertiser.
